WEEK-END REST PROVIDED GIRL IN MURDER CASE

NEW YORK, March 28.—(UP)—A weekend court recess won a needed respite for Vera Stretz today from the ordeal of describing the "brutal and unnatural" practices which she has said forced her to kill wealthy Dr. Fritz Gebhardt.

The blonde art student was so unnerved by her recital yesterday of an association with Gebhardt in which she came to love him "very, very dearly," that fatherly Judge Cornelius F. Collins adjourned her trial until Monday in fear that she might collapse if recalled today.

Judge Collins leaned frequently over his scarred oak bench yesterday, wiping his high, bald head with a handkerchief in a nervous gesture of distress, to help Miss Stretz over difficult bits of testimony.

RUMOR IS DENIED

The report circulated Saturday that the storeroom formerly used by the Roof restaurant, W. Main-st., has been leased, was branded untrue by a representative of the owners.

'Flivver' Planes Studied By Automobile Builders

Low Cost Air Transportation Assured Through Use of Ordinary Motors; Experimental Licenses Given Ford; Test Flights Already Staged

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(UP)—American automobile manufacturers are working on plans to put ordinary automobile engines into "flivver" airplanes to be sold at low cost to the average man.

At least five companies, the United Press was reliably informed are interested. They were understood to be the Ford Motor Co., General Motors, Graham-Paige, Chrysler and Hudson.

The significance of the studies by motor companies lies in the ability of big automobile concerns to swing into mass production of small, cheap planes whenever their experiments make such action feasible.

Some experts said that such a plane on the market could be sold so cheaply that the number of aircraft in the United States probably would be quadrupled within a short time.

Angles Discussed
These experts cited the following to support their views:

- 1—At present there are 7300 licensed planes in the nation, excluding army and navy.
- 2—Large scale production facilities already available to automobile companies would permit much lower prices than at present.
- 3—Automobile companies already have established distributing points which would—without new cost—permit cheap distribution and sales campaigning.

Experts emphasized the difference between large scale and present production by airplane manufacturers, the largest of which

SENIORS HONOR FRANK FISCHER

Circleville Graduating Class to Dedicate "Circle"

The esteem in which Frank Fischer, superintendent, is held by the graduating class of Circleville high school was expressed today when The Circle staff, annual publication, announced it would be dedicated to him. A recent vote of the senior class determined to whom honor should be paid.

The 1935 "Circle" was dedicated to the memory of E. L. Daley, who died in the middle of the school year.

Much work has been done on this year's annual. All group pictures were taken of various school organizations during the last week. In addition, individual pictures of senior class members, pictures of the nine honored in "Who's Who" were taken.

44 TAKE SENIOR TESTS IN HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Forty-four Circleville and Pickaway-co high school seniors were undergoing rigid examination today in the Circleville high school. The occasion is the annual senior scholarship test.

Nine of the entrants are Circleville students, while the other 35 are from the various rural schools.

Subjects used in the test are mathematics, physical science, social science, English, and reading.

BRICK SHORTAGE HALTS PROJECT

Court-St Cleared of Equipment to Permit Traffic

Shortage of new bricks forced suspension of paving operations on the Court-st project at noon Saturday.

Paving was completed to Main-st. All equipment was cleared from the street Saturday afternoon so traffic could be resumed.

Workers will continue tearing up the street north of the intersection. A shipment of 200,000 new bricks from Nelsonville has been delayed about a week. The main square will be opened to traffic until the new bricks arrive.

Mayor W. J. Graham conferred with engineers Saturday to learn where white or buff bricks could be obtained for the historical design to be placed in the main square. A $5 prize has been offered for the best design submitted.

DEADLINE NEAR, 1,000 MUST FILE TAX RETURNS

Approximately 2,000 personal tax returns were listed with the county auditor at noon Saturday, leaving more than 1,000 still to be filed before the deadline, Tuesday evening. Employees of the office were busy Saturday making out returns. They urged residents who have not filed to do so as soon as possible to evade a last minute rush.

The employees called attention to one of the new features on the blank requiring listing of grain handled. This feature applies especially to truck operators who purchase grain from farmers to sell to elevators. This grain must be listed. Truck operators should check their records before filing their returns.

MERCURY FALLS TO 34; SCIOTO CLIMBS FOOT

Winter sneaked back in Circleville Friday night to take a late punch at the mercury. It fell to 34 degrees, accompanying a heavy frost. A frost at this season can cause little damage.

The river was eight feet above normal, Saturday morning, one foot higher than Friday.

MAYOR GRAHAM STANDS AGAINST DEVICE RETURN

"Machines Are Out to Stay," Official Declares, Discrediting Reports

CIVIC SUPPORT CITED

"Rumors Machines Returning False," Ford Enforces Chillicothe Order

Gaming devices are out of Circleville and they are going to stay out.

That is the feeling of Mayor W. J. Graham despite the fact that machine owners, persons representing them, and several of their friends have been "putting on pressure" nearly every day since the executive's orders to remove them was issued.

Only one machine, so far as officials know, remains in Circleville. That is in an uptown restaurant, and nothing has been done about forcing it out.

Order Several Weeks Old
The order to remove all devices, including slot, pinball and marble machines, was ordered issued several weeks ago in an order given verbally to Police Chief W. F. McCrady by Safety Director Charles Caskey. The order came first from Mayor Graham.

"I have received support from most of the city's leading citizens," Mayor Graham declared Saturday. "Nearly every one has been in favor of keeping the devices out of business places."

"There have been rumors and reports circulated, I understand, that I am going to allow the machines to return. But they are absolutely false," the mayor said emphatically.

Ford Enforces Decree
Mayor James E. Ford of Chillicothe has ordered absolute enforcement of his decree barring gaming devices. "These fellows who say machines are coming back don't know what they are talking about," the mayor said. "When I say stay out, I mean stay out."

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI REFUGES NEGRO STUDENTS

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 28.—(UP)—The board of curators of the University of Missouri today stood steadfast and united in denying negroes the right to enter the university.

In a meeting attended by the full board of nine, a resolution ordering S. W. Canada, registrar, to "reject and deny" the application of Lloyd L. Gaines, St. Louis negro, was adopted. Several negroes recently have demanded entrance to professional schools at the university. Gaines has brought a mandamus action to compel acceptance of his application.

The board stated that Lincoln university at Jefferson City is provided by the state for the exclusive use of negroes.

CINCINNATI STUDENTS APPROVE ROOSEVELT

CINCINNATI, March 28.—(UP)—Student opinion at the University of Cincinnati today approved in a decisive manner the policies of the current national administration.

A campus poll revealed President Roosevelt was given 566 votes, while his nearest rival, Gov. Alfred Landon of Kansas, secured only 234. Former President Herbert Hoover finished in third place with 122 votes. Nine other presidential possibilities together received 589 ballots.

Bruno Ready for Last Date

BRUNO Richard Hauptmann goes to his death in the electric chair at Trenton State Penitentiary at 8 o'clock in the evening of March 31, bringing to an end the most dramatic episode in the history of American crime. He pays the extreme penalty four years and one month after the commission of the crime, the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Condemned Man Hopeful Something Will Happen

Hoffman Wants Wilentz to Approve Reprieve; Attorney General to Announce His Stand With Statement

TRENTON, N. J., March 28.—(UP)—A political war with control of the state police force the prize kicked Bruno Richard Hauptmann closer to the electric chair today than he has ever been before.

Whether Hauptmann will die Tuesday appeared to rest upon agreement between Attorney General David T. Wilentz and Gov. Harold G. Hoffman. Only Hauptmann, predicting calmly in his cell that "something will happen," had confidence that Wilentz and Hoffman would end a political feud vital to both of them to save him.

Wilentz promised a statement of his position today or Monday.

Governor Hoffman offered Hauptmann a reprieve last night but made it contingent upon approval by Wilentz. He said he was "more convinced than ever" that Hauptmann did not receive a trial "in line with American standards of justice," but he admitted that he did not have legal power to halt the execution.

Hauk Is Angered
While Wilentz kept silent, Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauk of Flemington, who collaborated with the attorney general to convict Hauptmann, interjected a threat to take court action to compel Hauptmann's execution if Hoffman attempted to intervene.

"No man ever became successful by backing down," Hauk said.

GOVERNOR SEEKS EXCUSE TO GIVE BRUNO REPRIEVE

'Confession' of Gaston Means Believed Motive Behind Personal Appeal

U. S. POLICY "HANDS OFF"

Cummings on Vacation, But Subordinates Refuse to Discuss Abduction

TRENTON, N. J., March 28.—(UP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's last desperate plea for clemency from the New Jersey court of pardons will be heard at 11 a. m. Monday, just 33 hours before the time set for his execution for murdering Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(UP)—The department of justice has rejected a personal appeal from Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey that it re-enter the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Had the request been granted, the action undoubtedly would have been followed by another reprieve for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted kidnaper-slayer of the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Based on "Confession"

The appeal, which was made Sunday, was said to have been based on the purported "confession" letter of Gaston E. Means from his cell in Leavenworth penitentiary, together with other evidence Hoffman claimed to have uncovered.

Justice department officials, however, maintained the "hands-off" policy adopted nearly two years ago when federal agencies were withdrawn from the case following a reported controversy with New Jersey authorities.

Other efforts were made during the week to persuade those in command of the justice department during the vacation of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings that the department should re-enter the case. All such efforts were unsuccessful.

Questions concerning the case, which became more and more frequent as the scheduled hour of Hauptmann's execution drew near, were met with "no comment." Officials were pointedly silent the minute they heard the words "Hauptmann" or "Lindbergh."

Seeking Reprieve Cause

It was believed the New Jersey governor made his unsuccessful appeal in an effort to find cause for a second reprieve for the stolid German. The Means "confession" however, failed to impress Washington authorities. They placed little or no credence in anything Means might say.

BODIES OF FOUR FOUND IN PLANE

Wreckage Located on Hill Near Tucson, Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz., March 28.—(UP)—The bodies of four men killed when their plane crashed into a mountainside northeast of Tucson, will be taken to Phoenix today.

The four were killed early Thursday while on a flight from Douglas to Phoenix, where all lived. The wreckage of the plane was found yesterday.

The dead were Harold A. Marks, 31, attorney and national vice-president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; John Powles, Junior Chamber of Commerce officer of Phoenix; Paul C. Swasey, a drug store owner, and Paul Odneal, pilot and owner of an airline.

CLAIM AGAINST RAILROAD SETTLED FOR TEN DOLLARS

John F. Knece, Deer Creek-twp, was granted authority in probate court Friday to settle a $10 personal injury claim of his daughter, Doris Jean, 8, with the Pennsylvania railroad.

Doris was slightly injured on Nov. 18, 1935, when an auto in which she was riding ran into the side of a box car. Her grandfather, Harley Arledge, was driving the auto. The company denied liability but offered to pay $10 in settlement.

Logan Elm Plaque Presented Library

A bronze plaque of Logan Elm was presented to the Circleville library Friday by Mrs. Howard Jones at the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees.

This valuable addition to the library shows Logan Elm in the day of its greatest beauty. The original, modeled by Dr. Howard Jones, is included in the architectural design of a fireplace in the Jones home. The reproduction is the work of artists connected with Antioch college. It will be mounted and installed in the Reference room.

Dr. Jones met with the board to make final arrangements for the desired mounting and the location of the exhibit. When mounted the plaque will be three by five feet.

Two of the most unusual books in the library, which have just returned from the binder, were displayed at the meeting. One of the books, of which there is no known duplicate, was a volume of the early numbers of "The Olive Branch," printed here from Feb. 27, 1821 to Aug. 6, 1826. The old binder was of cloth with leather back strip. The new cover, made of the finest material obtainable, should carry the rag-paper contents in safety for the next 115 years.

An other unusual book is "The Scottish Clans and Their Tartans" 2nd edition, an odd little volume of great interest to any one with even a remote connection with the land of the kilt and the bagpipe. Some time in the past, five plates from the library copy of this volume, possibly before it became the property of the library.

This book and "The Olive Branch" are in the specially reserved collection of library treasures, and are not for circulation or general references.

REP. M'GROARTY SEEKS TO HEAL TOWNSEND RIFT

Solon Intends to Have Clements and Aged Founder Meet Next Week

WASHINGTON, March 28 — (UP)—Restoration of harmony within the Townsend old-age pension organization, under fire in a torrid congressional investigation, was undertaken today by Rep. John Steven McGroarty.

McGroarty, California poet and author of the Townsend plan in Congress, revealed he would seek a reconciliation between Dr. Francis E. Townsend and Robert E. Clements, who testified to large profits after resigning from the $1,000,000 a year organization.

Clements resigned this week, the day after he was summoned before a house investigating committee, as secretary-treasurer of the organization which he built into 7,000 clubs with 8,000,000 dues-paying members after Townsend suggested the idea.

McGroarty's efforts were made during a recess of the committee to permit Clements to assemble additional financial data to add to the two days of testimony in which he has revealed much of the "inside story" of the OARP.

"I will take the leadership in the peace movement," McGroarty said. "I think Dr. Townsend and Clements will get together in the face of this unwarranted attack by the investigation upon us."

Dr. Townsend is due here early next week to follow Clements in testifying before the house committee. McGroarty indicated he would seek to bring the two together. He predicted Clements will "return to the fold next week."

Clements was the chief organizer of the movement that he said had a total income of $951,963.90 since its inception 25 months ago. Since the first of this year the income, he said, has been at the rate of approximately $1,000,000 a year.

He resigned as secretary-treasurer of the OARP, a position that last year gave him an income $12,385, plus living and traveling expenses, after a dispute with Dr. Townsend involving organization and participation in partisan politics.

He testified he had lived a life of comparative luxury in a $150-a-month Washington apartment, paid for with nickles and dimes collected from millions of aged persons, and traveled "in style."

Chicago Fears Fatalities in Election As Kelly Machine and Dr. Bundesen Fight Renomination of Gov. Horner

CHICAGO—The keeper of Cook county's morgue is dusting off a number of slabs in expectation of some business on primary day, April 14.

The bitterest primary fight in living memory is raging in the ranks of Chicago Democrats, due to the unceremonious dumping of Gov. Henry Horner by the Cook county machine dominated by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Pat Nash, national committeeman.

Not since 1928, when the Robert E. Crowe Republican machine was broken, has there been a really bloody election in Chicago, but newspaper editorial writers, police officials, and sideline observers now are predicting that the Democratic primary in April will be Cook county's worst.

Early Violence

Already, with several weeks still remaining in the campaign, there has been violence, including a number of assaults, window breakings, sign smashing. Violence so far in advance of voting day is unprecedented. Supporters of Governor Horner expect strong measures from him on primary day, to keep from being counted out. One thing expected from the governor is the assignment of state police to watch polling places.

One police captain expressed the private opinion today that if state police invade Chicago April 14 to protect the interests of Governor Horner, bloodshed on a wide scale will be a certainty.

A record-breaking registration confirmed widespread opinions that primary day this year will be hectic. When all revisions in polling lists have been made, there will be a registration in Chicago of not fewer than 1,700,000 votes, an all-time record for the city.

Whistling
Leaders of each faction, of course, concluded publicly that the heavy registration meant indubitably that a wave of public sentiment was washing in for them. Privately, however, every politician is whistling in the dark, with full knowledge that the big registration means a jackpot that can't go to everybody.

The fight between Governor Horner and Mayor Kelly has become so bitter that as far as publicity is concerned, Mayor Kelly's candidate for governor, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, has been all but lost in a cloud of recrimination between Horner and Kelly.

Mayor on Defensive

Kelly is not a candidate, but he is the most busy man in the campaign, defending himself against radio attacks by Governor Horner, who has surprised even his close associates with his capacity for carrying the fight to the enemy.

Kelly has been placed in a peculiarly unfortunate defense position by Governor Horner's strategy. The governor hammers on this point:

"The issue is between the Democratic voters in the primary and 'Boss' Kelly."

Dr. Bundesen, who after all is Governor Horner's opposition on the ballot, never is mentioned. Mayor Kelly himself has been forced to answer these attacks of attrition with the declaration, now becoming lame, that "the people elected me, I'm no boss."

The Battleground

The Horner forces privately hold no fear of losing to the Kelly-Nash machine downstate, and are concentrating their attack in Chicago, where they hope to win a number of wards. The greater part of the city's 50 wards are fairly well wired for the local organization, but in at least five of them contests are so bitter that it is anybody's fight.

Mayor Kelly's defense suffered at his own hands St. Patrick's day, in the opinion of many observers here. He referred at a dinner in St. Louis to that "distinguished Irishman, Mr. O'Horne."

Governor Horner immediately seized on the implication of racial hatred inherent in the alleged remark, and termed Kelly a "bea constructor." The governor followed with the vitriolic blast that "St. Patrick drove the snakes out of Ireland, and I'm going to drive 'Boss' Kelly out of Illinois."

There are 35 species of hawks known to live or visit in America north of Mexico.

CITY MAY SEEK TITLE AS NEW SMOKY CITY

Pittsburgh may hold first honors as a smoky city but Circleville ran a close second Friday afternoon.

Two huge tar kettles used on the Court-st repaving project were placed near the main square Friday. In addition to the coal smoke, tar that had spilled over one of the kettles was "burned off." Billows of black smoke rolled over the square. Scores of spectators lined the sidewalks to watch the blaze.

OBITUARY

Morda Hope McDaniel, daughter of Florence and Charles Langdon, was born at Andersonville, Ohio, September 29th, 1880 and departed from this life March 23rd, 1936, age 55 years 6 months and 6 days. Mrs. McDaniel had been failing in health since May 1, 1934. Although everything was done which medical skill and loving hands could do, it was all in vain as God called her to be with Him in Heaven.

She was united in marriage to Parmer M. McDaniel, February 19, 1899 and was the mother of 14 children of which 12 survive. Ray and Palmer, Jr. of Detroit; Ralph, Kenneth, Mrs. Clarence Malone and Mrs. George Sommers of Chillicothe; Mrs. John Garber, Toledo; Mrs. William Crome of Los Angeles, Calif.; Myrtle, Lawquilla, Gretchen and Warren G. at home; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Park and Mrs. John Long of Pasadena, Calif. Two half brothers, Pearl Pettet, and Frank Kinnerman of Chillicothe.

She was a life long member of First Presbyterian Church, South Charleston.

God came to visit us today And took our darling mother away.

Over the mountain railway high, To dwell with Him up in the sky.

Where the Heavenly angels sing, God's the maker and our king, It leaves us all so very sad, But I know our mother's glad.

Tho she suffered in the past, She has come to rest at last, So mother we'll be happy too, When God brings us home to you.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all of those who helped to make the sad hours of our bereavement brighter, for the kind words spoken, to all those who gave flowers also to the undertaker, Mr. M. S. Rinehart and to Rev. L. S. Metzler for his wonderful service.

—Mr. McDaniel and family.

DOROTHY AVIS ELECTED DEBATE CLUB PRESIDENT

Dorothy Avis was elected president of the recently organized Debate club at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon.

At the same meeting John Rankin was chosen vice-president, and Jessie Dresbach was selected Secretary-treasurer.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the High School. The club is planning a debate which will be presented in an assembly program later in the year.

The club is also planning to engage in debates with several other high schools.

The members of the present Varsity Debate squad are honorary members of the club.

Mr. Jewett, advisor, acted as chairman of this meeting.

UNUSUAL ASSEMBLY IS PRESENTED TO STUDENTS

A very unusual assembly program was presented Thursday afternoon by A. S. Kellogg, who is widely known for his memorization skill. Mr. Kellogg gave many examples proving his ability to memorize.

The speaker proved his skill of memory by answering questions relating to the exact population of many cities of the United States. Other small details were also answered by Mr. Kellogg.

When given the names of a list of foods and groceries, he named the articles in the order in which they were given from memory.

Mr. Kellogg has spoken before many clubs and organizations of the country.

CAST OF JUNIOR PLAY ENJOYS DINNER PARTY

At the Pickaway Country Club, Monday, twenty-three members of the Junior play cast and technical staff enjoyed a delightful evening.

After a very palatable dinner, the different members of the party, including Mr. Bowen, director, reminisced on many of their trying experiences while getting the play in shape.

The remainder of the evening was spent in games and dancing.

DANCES AND DRILLS

The annual May Day festival will be made up this year of many dances and drills by the elementary grades.

Fourth grade, a "Dutch Dance" and "Hansel and Gretel." Fifth "Flag Drill." Sixth, "Flag Drill." The seventh and eighth will close these dances by a Maypole Dance.

The children have begun practice and the teachers are busy with costumes.

Miss Priest is in charge of this gala event.

SCHOOL HELPS DRIVE

Circleville High school helped the Red Cross in its drive for relief of flood stricken areas, by holding a "penny day" last Wednesday. An amount of approximately $32 was taken in.

DOGGONED, IF I HAVEN'T!

Old Lady (meeting a one-legged tramp on the street): Poor man, you have lost a leg, haven't you?

Tramp (looking down at his foot): Well, I'll be darned if I haven't.

CANTATA IS PLANNED

The Girls' Glee club will present an Easter cantata entitled "Victory" in the High School auditorium Sunday afternoon, April 5.

The public is cordially invited to attend the program.

The Glee club will present the cantata the following Tuesday evening, April 7, at the Methodist Episcopal church.

Miss Priest is in charge of the cantata.

JENKINS EIGHTH SENIOR TO SPEAK TO ROTARY

Thursday noon John Jenkins, versatile high school athlete, was the eighth senior to speak to the Circleville Rotary Club on "What Rotary Means To Me."

Jenkins spoke of Rotaries fellowship and of its wide influence. Each of the ten seniors to address the club were selected by a faculty committee. They each attend three meetings and then speak on "What Rotary Means To Me."

Next week Hilaire Haacker will be the ninth Senior boy selected by the committee to attend the meetings. Already John Griffith, Dick Plum, George Rader, Richard Harman, James Henderson, Fred Grant, Willard Friley and Jenkins have spoken to the club.

Following Haacker, Burn Jones will be the tenth and concluding visitor to the Rotary club.

The boys attend the meeting with Mr. Fred Watts, faculty member of the Rotary.

MANY STUDENTS PLAN TRIP TO WASHINGTON

Many students are planning to take the educational pilgrimage to Washington, D. C., the national capitol.

They will go via Baltimore and Ohio railroad, leaving Chillicothe at 5:25 p. m. April 3, in a special all-steel coach train.

A special sight-seeing trip is offered for $140. This includes admission to Mt. Vernon.

They will arrive in Washington at 7:00 a. m. Saturday and return home early Sunday morning. The fare for this special trip is $42.50.

Among some of the most interesting places to be visited includes the White House, Washington's Home and Tomb, the Tidal Basin viewing the Japanese Cherry Trees, the Washington Monument and the Government Building Triangle, old home of General Robert E. Lee, Memorial Amphitheatre and Tomb of America's Unknown Soldier.

ONE ACT PLAY TO BE GIVEN IN ASSEMBLY

Plans for the production of the one act play, "Afterwards," which was featured in the Scholastic weekly magazine, are being made for an assembly program sometime in April.

The cast of this play is composed of four members, the two main ones being Richard Harman and Anne Vierebome. The other characters have not been chosen thus far.

The play is unlike others that have been presented at Circleville high school as it portrays the life of two people after their death.

Mr. Bowen, dramatics director, is in charge of the production.

CLASSES GET QUESTIONS

The three social civics classes, in addition to the many projects which they have completed this year, are preparing questionnaires which are to be distributed to the various school principals who are requested to distribute them to the parents of the pupils.

The questionnaire which is composed of thirty questions pertains to the coming elections and the various political problems confronting the public.

After the questionnaires are returned the social civics classes will tabulate the results and discuss their conclusions.

Mr. Jewett supervises the social civics classes.

GLEE CLUB DANCE

The date for the Boy's Glee club party has been set for April 3. It is to be a dinner dance at the Pickaway Country club.

The Boy's Glee club has made several appearances in the past year in assembly programs and at the student carnival last night. Miss Priest is the supervisor of the club and Hilaire Haacker the pianist.

HIGH SCHOOL VISITOR'S

It has seemed like old times this week to see several of last year's seniors strolling down the halls.

As it is spring vacation in many colleges and universities some have taken this opportunity of being back in the high school class rooms.

Among those visiting were: Betty Sayre, George Speakman, Mark Maxey, Otis Mader, and Tom Kirwin.

SENIOR VOLLEY BALLERS WIN CLASS CHAMPIONSHIP

Johnny McGinnis and his Senior volley-ballers are the 1936 class champions as a result of the hardest fought tournament staged at the high school this year.

Two teams were selected to represent each class in this year's tournament. In the final John McGinnis' senior team, met and defeated the second senior team captained by Morton Reichelderfer.

In the first game, played with six-man teams, McGinnis' crew defeated the freshman, led by Johnny Noggle. Jackson's sophomores defeated the Sophomore team led by Willard Binkley. Reichelderfer's Senior boys downed the sophomores captained by Earl Garner. Richard Moon led his freshmen to a victory over Millard Good's Junior team.

In the semi finals, played on a long court with eight man teams Dave Jackson's sophomores were defeated by McGinnis' seniors while Moon's team was beaten by Reichelderfer's team.

By virtue of the senior's victory over all other volley-ballers seniors have again defended their laurels and remain undefeated in any intramural sport since they were sophomores. Even when representing their Freshman class they annexed every title except the Boy's Class basketball championship.

Composing the Championship Senior outfit are Captain McGinnis, Dick Melson, Cecil Andrews, Robert Good, James Henderson, Ned Harden, Junior Scott and Harvey Sweyer.

Compliments should also go to Coach Jack Landrum for the excellent manner in which he handled the tournament.

A large crowd, consisting mostly of High School students, attended the tournament.

STUDENT CARNIVAL HELD AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY

Something new and novel was enjoyed by students and townspeople alike when the various organizations of Circleville high school presented a Student Carnival last night.

Each of the High School organizations presented an act, entertainment or novelty in the various rooms in the building and a small admission was charged.

The money made from last night's enterprises will be turned over to the Student council in order to sponsor high school parties or activities.

Many interesting acts were presented by the Girl Reserves, Hi-Y, Jr. Girl Reserves, E. M. S. and the Stooze club ranging in variety from fortune-tellers to Duck Ponds and Bingo games.

After all the individual acts and novelties and shows an Auditorium program was presented by several of the students.

MCGINNIS, JACKSON ARE NEW STOOGE MEMBERS

The "Stoozes" reinstated John McGinnis and voted in Dave Jackson at their weekly meeting held at the home of Hilaire Haacker Monday evening. McGinnis was given an honorable discharge a year ago because of his work.

Final preparations were completed for the "Stooze's" participation in the Student Carnival. John Griffith, Hilaire Haacker, Junior Sweyer, and Willard Friley were appointed to take charge of the Bingo game. Plans for the "House of Terror" were completed.

Mr. Jewett was a guest of the "Stoozes."

NATION LEAGUE PLANNED

The fourth period Sophomore class held a "League of Nations" meeting Friday of last week. The question discussed was "What is Going To Be Done About The German Occupation of The Rhineland?"

June Harrington acted as chairman and the principal world powers were: Belgium, Ada Mae Gardner; England, Betty Heeter; Ethiopia, Thelma Welch; France, Mary McGinnis; Germany, Mildred Thieme; Italy, Dorothy Newland; Japan, Maxine Betts; Poland, Virginia Brown, and Russia, Betty Weller.

The advisors of the Girl Reserves sponsored a delightful tea for the members Tuesday afternoon.

Churches To Confer On Funds

Meeting of Ohio Council Called for April 9; Competition is Objective

COLUMBUS, March 28.—(UP) Denominational leaders affiliated with the Ohio Council of Churches will meet here April 9 to consider action to stop competitive expenditure of home mission funds by Protestant churches of the state.

Reports on mission-aid in 71 small Ohio communities will be given by sub-committees which have been studying local fields since last fall. Previously, Dr. W. R. King of New York, executive secretary of the Home Mission Council revealed numerous instances where two or more Protestant denominations are spending mission money in the same community to maintain weak, competing churches.

Dr. B. F. Lamb, secretary of the Ohio council, said today six leading denominations had adopted a national policy of stopping such competitive outlay of mission funds. These churches are the Baptist, Congregational-Christian, Disciples, Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian and Reformed.

"In a specific local community this may mean merger of aided churches in a single congregation capable of self-support, more elimination of aid, leaving the churches unchanged but dependent upon their local resources, or, if the committee finds the aided churches are not actually competitive, continuance of the present plan of operation," Dr. Lamb said.

Dr. Charles L. Zorbaugh, executive secretary of the Presbyterian church in Ohio, will preside at the conference.

Spring revival begins at the Church of the Nazarene Sunday night. Evangelist Wesley Pruden of Little Rock, Ark. will preach each evening at 7:30 p. m. until after Easter. He will conduct his first service here Monday evening.

Jesus Explains the Kingdom

The first requirement of the kingdom of God on which Jesus insisted was repentance of sin. Another was fruitfulness in God's service. Those who lacked this he likened to a fruitless fig tree that must be cut down.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Luke 13:1-35

Another kingdom requirement was mercy. He healed a woman bent over for 18 years. But because it was the sabbath he was criticized. If it is proper to loose an ox to water it on the sabbath why refuse mercy to this woman?

Jesus likened such wrong notions of the kingdom to a mustard plant that tried to be a big tree so that evil men, like birds, found roosting places in its branches.

He also likened such false notions of the kingdom of God to leaven or yeast which a woman puts into her bread dough until it spreads through it all. Thus he warns us against wrong notions of the kingdom. (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 13:29)

Luke 13:29—"They shall come from the east and west, and from the north and south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God."

Jesus Explains the Kingdom

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 29 is Luke 13:1-35; especially verses 18-30, the Golden Text being verse 29, "They shall come from the east and west, and from the north and south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.")

THE FIRST requisite to entrance into the kingdom of God is repentance, that poverty of spirit which realizes its spiritual need and hungers and thirsts after righteousness. Both John the Baptist and Jesus began their preaching of the kingdom by crying, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."

So when certain people reminded Jesus of Pilate's massacre of some Galileans whose "blood was

Poems That Live

THE MAN OF LIFE UPRIGHT

The man of life upright,
Whose guileless heart is free
From all dishonest deeds,
Or thought of vanity;

The man whose silent days,
In harmless joys are spent,
Whom hopes cannot delude
Nor sorrow discontent;

That man needs neither towers
Nor armor for defense,
Nor secret vaults to fly
From thunder's violence:

He only can behold
With unafraid eyes
The horrors of the deep
And terrors of the skies.

Thus scornful all the cares
That fate or fortune brings,
He makes the heaven his home,
His wisdom heavenly things;

Good thoughts his only friends,
His wealth a well-spent age,
The earth his sober inn
And quiet pilgrimage.

SPORT

The merry waves dance up and down and play,
Sport is granted to the sea;
Birds are the quisters of the empty air,
Sport is never wanting there;

The ground doth smile at the spring's flowery birth,
Sport is granted to the earth;
The fire its cheering flame on high doth rear,
Sport is never wanting there.

If all the elements, the earth, the sea,
Air, and fire, so merry be
Why is man's mirth so seldom and so small
Who is compounded of them all?

mingled with their sacrifices." Jesus reminded them that these folk of despised Galilee were not "sinners above all the Galileans because they suffered these things." Nor were they worse sinners than themselves. So Jesus warned them "Except ye repent ye shall all in like manner perish." He went further and reminded these folk, who were probably from Judaea, and proud of it, of some 18 of their own people who had been killed in Jerusalem by the fall of the tower of Siloam, and that these were by no means "offenders above all the men that dwell in Jerusalem."

False Kingdom Tendencies

The foregoing incidents led Jesus to call attention to certain false tendencies in kingdom growth of which these incidents were evidence: "He said therefore, unto what is the kingdom of God like? and wherewith shall I liken it? It is like unto a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and cast into his own garden; and it grew and became a tree; and the birds of the heaven lodged in the branches thereof." So the church took an abnormal growth and became the roosting place of evil men, like the ruler of the synagogue, opponents of the word as Jesus himself in Matt. 13:19 interpreted the birds of this parable. He also likened the kingdom to leaven hidden in meal until its influence permeated all the meal. Thus he warned against the corrupting influence of the enemies of his word, who now were massing their forces against him.

the woman was healed physically and spiritually. But the ruler of the synagogue was indignant at the loosing of the woman and regarded it as a desecration. "Ye hypocrite," said Jesus, "doth not each one of you on the sabbath day loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering?" Why should more mercy be shown to brute property than to afflicted humanity on the sabbath?

RUXTON AND HAUPTMANN

FOR every million persons in England there are fifteen murders in a single year. For every million in the United States there are eighty-seven murders. This great disparity may be explained in some degree by the heterogeneous character of this country's population, creating difficulties of law enforcement. Primarily, however, it is traceable to the unfailing efficiency with which English justice functions, compared to the slow and faltering fashion in which the processes of justice in the United States move toward retribution.

The condition is emphasized by the case of Dr. Buck Ruxton, who cut up his wife and left her body in a ravine and who will be hanged at Manchester, England, on April 1, the day after the date set for the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Dr. Ruxton was picked up by the police September 13, 1935. His trial lasted eleven days and he will be hanged within two weeks after a jury returned a verdict of guilty. Hauptmann was arrested September 19, 1934, so that more than nineteen months will have elapsed from that time until his execution. More than a year has passed since his conviction.

Britishers are extremely reluctant to engage in murder and the reason lies in the fact that they realize there is every chance that their own lives will be forfeited. If this were the rule in the United States the records would not show 6,251 lives taken by murderers in a single year.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN

CHARLIE CHAPLIN is more elusive today than he was twenty years ago, when he was making two-reel comedy shorts, or even when the shorts had blossomed into those full-length comedies which were among the funniest things man has ever been privileged to see. There is almost a full generation of younger moviegoers who have seen him no more than once or twice. Some of them have never seen Charlie Chaplin at all. How strange that seems.

They will never, of course, see him just as he was in "Shoulder Arms" or "The Kid." Charlie Chaplin has changed with the years. He is concerned with other things than the simple business of being funny. But he is still very, very funny. He TOWNSEND FORCES OUT CLEMENTS WASHINGTON—R. E. Clements, co-founder of the Townsend movement, did not voluntarily resign from the organization, as he and his colleagues announced. He was forcibly ousted.

The secret, behind-the-scenes maneuvers which preceded this fall have all the elements of story-book drama—a young, beautiful, red-headed woman, great public power, big money, and clashing personal and political ambitions.

The eruption had its start early last winter, when Clements cancelled a radio broadcast that Dr. Francis E. Townsend, originator of the old-age pension formula, was scheduled to make.

Townsend and his intimates placed responsibility for this rebuff at the doorstep of Mrs. Thelma Clements, the 28-year-old, read-headed ex-stenographer whom Clements married in 1934. They accused Mrs. Clements of having secret designs to shelve Townsend, and of high-handed meddling in the affairs of the organization.

This rift between the two partners continued to widen as Clements, and his wife, pushed themselves increasingly to the fore in the control of the organization.

Townsend, finally, could stand no more of this. He packed his bags and fled back to California.

PACKED BOARD

There he conferred with his attorney, Sheridan Downey, a militant follower of the ex-Socialist Upton Sinclair and the candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the EPIC ticket in 1934. Out of the conferences with Downey came a secret meeting in the Muehlbach Hotel in Kansas City on March 9th.

Present at this gathering were Townsend, Downey, Judge Gomer Smith of Oklahoma, the third member of the Townsend board, and a number of state leaders. Clements was not present in person, but was represented by his attorney.

After extended discussion it was decided to increase the size of the board by adding two members. Elected to these places were Dr. R. J. Wright, of Cleveland, manager of the Ohio area, and Gilmore Young, a henchman of E. L. Margette, manager of the California area and one of the most powerful officials in the Townsend movement.

None of this leaked out to the millions of oldsters who paid regular dues to the organization.

Among insiders, however, two reasons were whispered as responsible for the enlarging of the board: (1) a larger board would make a better impression upon Congressional investigators; (2) more directors were needed to out-vote Clements and bring about his ouster.

THE CAMDEN RUBY MURDER

by ADAM BLISS

COPYRIGHT—RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Doc Van Every, a collector of rare jewels, invites an acquaintance, Gary Maughan, and the latter's old friend, Margalo Younger, an actress, to his home to view the priceless Camden ruby. At Van Every's both Margalo, sitting before the fire, and Maughan are impressed with the size and brilliance of the rare stone. Van Every objects in vain when Margalo hanks the ruby from her neck, explaining it is called a "murder stone," and then proceeds to relate its gruesome history. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

"I HAVE SAID that James, first owner of the Camden ruby, was a sick man when he returned from Jerusalem. He had gone to that far country, a young man, a man in his prime, and when he came back to his castle, after a few years, his hair was turned with gray, and his eyes were those of an old man.

"He brooded over the death of Gwladys, his beloved. And a year later he died, not a violent death, but a peaceful one. His brother, John, a younger brother, no more than a boy when the call of the Crusades had gone out, became the Lord of Camden. "Now, John had heard tales of the great ruby. He had not himself seen it because James had quickly taken it after Gwladys was found dead. But there were knights who had seen it glowing in Gwladys' hand, and had murmured about it. So John knew about it. He searched the castle for it day and night, thinking that his brother had hidden it some place. It was not in any of the strong boxes. For years he searched for it, while other men were starting out on a fresh Crusade to the east.

"He saw his young son, a mere baby, take a banner and leave on the Children's Crusade, without a murmur. John was married, and two sons had been born to him, one, who was never named, the boy, who bravely set out with other children to show Jerusalem the light; another, Rolf, who figures later in this story. Rolf was the younger, dot yet born when James died.

"Years passed, and still the ruby was not found. At last an old man, John desecrated the graves of his brother James and Gwladys in his search. He found the ruby at last, in Gwladys' grave.

"John had a sweetheart—we don't know her name. It has been lost in the ages somewhere. But gleefully he brought the stone to her. It was more beautiful than ever, a blood-red gem. John's hair was white, his shoulders stooped and bent; she was young, handsome. She had heard tales of the ruby since she was a child in the castle of Camden. At last it was hers. It was she who had suggested as a last possibility that the graves of James and Gwladys might hold the jewel.

"She put it around her neck, saw the crimson shadow it cast on her white skin. She was content. John would have to search no longer. "In the morning when her maids came in to awaken her, they found her quite dead, the ruby clutched in her fingers, much the way Gwladys had held it.

"Once more the castle was in mourning. John was prostrated. He began to believe the wicked stories of the murder stone. Gwladys had died. Now this woman whom he loved. He locked the stone up in his strong chest, and set a guard by it night and day. No one must handle the jewel.

"Soon John himself died and Rolf was master of the castle of Camden. Rolf, when he went through the strong chest, found a great deal of gold, an abundance of jewels. At the bottom wrapped in a bit of parchment inscribed with Latin was the ruby. Rolf could only write his name, so he summoned a scholar who could translate the letters which meant nothing to him. The scribe wrote them down. It was her name. One of the scholars in his castle had penned the note at John's dictation.

"I do not have the note, but this is the substance: John willed the ruby to his son, Rolf, on condition that the stone was to remain in the coffer, and that no one, no one, mind you, was to wear it. "Rolf was rather frightened. He had heard of Gwladys' death. He had been a man in the castle when his father's sweetheart died. He was married himself. He thought of selling the stone. Indeed, he brought it to several times when strangers were in the castle, men of much gold, and offered it to them for a price. None of them would buy. The ruby was too dangerous. So after a while Rolf let it lie.

"His wife, the wife of his middle age, for Rolf was getting on in years when John died, was warned not to go near the coffer. She heeded the warning, and had admonished her four daughters, for Rolf was not blessed with a son, to do the same.

"But Ellen, the youngest and fairest, a mere girl, had peeped through the great door into the hall once while Rolf was showing the stone to a rich stranger and urging him to buy it. She saw it red beauty, and longed for it. To wear it only once! "She awaited her chance and in the night crept up to the coffer where the gem was hidden. One of the knights, prowling about the castle, saw her steal in her dark clothes through the hall, and followed her. He did not recognize her as Ellen, so when he came on her tampering with the lock of the big chest, he drew out his dagger and killed her. Ellen, too, died for her ruby.

"Misfortunes followed the Lord of Camden. Four girls and no heir. Ellen killed. Rolf went on a long journey to another land to try to sell the stone. He was gone for a few years. When he came back, he did not have the ruby, and we imagine he was jubilant. Where he had sold it we did not know. I wish we did. Anyway, the stone was gone. He must have sold it, because Rolf was a cold bargainer; he would not give the stone away.

"His return to the castle was a sad one. Nothing remained of his lands, his home, but ruins. Marauders had come in his absence and taken away his women, burned his fields, and castle.

Van Every paused, and sipped once more from his glass. I glanced nervously at Margalo. How was she taking this? She wearing the fatal Camden ruby. Her hands were quite still in her lap, and she was staring into the fireplace, her eyes expressionless, her features rather pale. I was furious with myself because I hadn't been firmer about her wearing the ruby. Of course the tale was bound to frighten her. Yet she wasn't superstitious, I knew that. Tomorrow she would laugh about the story, and go back to Van Every to see the jewel again.

The room was very silent. A clock was ticking softly some place. I hadn't noticed it before, so interested had I been in the story Van Every was telling. The traffic from the street did not reach up into the library. It was late, I thought, and there would be few cars on the streets.

The clock seemed very near me. I was rather astonished when I realized it was my own watch ticking in my pocket.

Margalo hadn't touched her cognac. The glass was still filled to the brim on the small table before her. Mine, empty, was beside hers.

On the couch at her side were the ashes of a cigarette she had been smoking, resting round and perfect in a tray on the cushions. She had taken a few puffs and then put it down long before. It was quite burned out now. She must have been intensely interested in what Van Every was saying. But then Margalo had a sense of the dramatic. I have never seen in anyone before what Van Every had said was probably alive to her, real.

"I don't know whether I ought to go on," Van Every broke the stillness apologetically. "I'm afraid you are bored."

Again I glanced at Margalo. She said nothing. "Miss Younger, do you wish to hear more?" He addressed her quickly.

"Go on, Van Every," I insisted. "You can't stop there."

So he took up the thread of his romance. "Where was I? Oh, yes, Rolf had come back to his castle. We will leave him there. For he does not figure in the story again.

"For years nothing was heard of the great ruby. Oh, now and then someone spoke of it, I suppose, and wondered where it was. Wondered whether the tales about it were true, enlarged on those tales, probably. It was easy to embellish them. Some thought the ruby was a myth. That there was no Camden ruby. That it was like the magic sword of King Arthur, like the Grail. Just a legend.

"But still there were the children of those who had seen the stone, seen the hole pierced in it, seen the gold chain, seen the gorgeous beauty of it."

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By— Charles P. Stewart

WHAT CAUSES movements that promise a great deal for a little to collapse?

They invariably do—of their own accord. Time is against them.

Even, however, when the strike in the heat of emotion, prior to the working of time, they collapse within a year or two.

Men who study such matters give this answer:

"Logic is inexorable. Against even the outcries of millions, logic in the form of fate marches on."

There is no easy road to a settlement of problems.

Thousands of our readers will assert we are writing of the Townsend movement. We are.

We wrote, also, a year or so ago of Huey Long and Father Coughlin. We said that, in any contest, President Roosevelt would win over them—not because the president was right, but because the illogical reasonings of the movements would be disclosed by time.

The same inexorable march of time or fate probably will disclose the illogic of the Roosevelt financial policy. But, as the president has the power of government behind him and as he can change policies to meet expediences, he is likely to survive critics and movements.

Furthermore, conservatives and richards will support a president tactic in defense of money. Even while they attack him, they will consider him a bulwark on this particular issue.

The collapse of "easy-road" movements does not mean, however, that change will not occur.

Well still will be forced to climb the rocky hills—to reach the succor on the other side.

Neither the "easy-road" folk nor the diehards will see that.

But the "rocky road," too, is inexorable. Who among us does not wish it would be otherwise?

SOCIAL SECURITY

All of which does not mean that we should not have social security on a broad scale.

But even social security will not work if fundamentals—equal opportunities for all—are not reached.

BORAH ALIVE

For a man seventy, Senator Borah is extremely lively. Not only is he carrying on an independent campaign for delegates to the Republican national convention, but he is taking the lead in legislation in congress.

Now the Borah-Van Nuys measure to regulate chain organizations is favored by witnesses over the Robinson-Patman measure.

Te senator, though, is weak in his economic thinking—his many critics say.

Dr. Malcolm McNair of the Harvard School of Business Administration, for example, believes that Senator Borah's measure might deprive consumers of savings which follow large sales distribution.

Dr. McNair remarked at a senate hearing on the Borah-Van Nuys bill: "Our business in this country follows a course of evolution. We all know that economic progress as a rule means that somebody's toes are stepped on." (Dr. McNair inferred small business.)

To which Senator Borah responded: "We are trying to put big business on a legitimate basis and that is all we are trying to do. I object to turning to corporations which have no competition."

DICTATOR? NO!

Ask Wall Street now whether it desires a dictator in the United States.

A few years ago leading financiers were suggesting that the United States required a dictator like Mussolini.

That opinion has changed since Mussolini ordered the nationalization of all the industries in Italy.

IN AUSTRIA

Socialists in Austria (equivalent to Democrats in the United States), acquitted of treason and possible death, are not freed. They are taken to concentration camps. They are guilty of being an oppositionist party.

Those convicted, chiefly intellectuals, will suffer in "legitimate" prisons, or have their life taken on the gallows.

They waited in jail 14 months for their trials.

Such is life in a fascist country. Italy, Austria, Poland, Germany, Rumania—thousands in those countries are secreted to camps and prisons. Not because they have committed crimes, but because they belong to oppositionist parties.

How long can this go on?

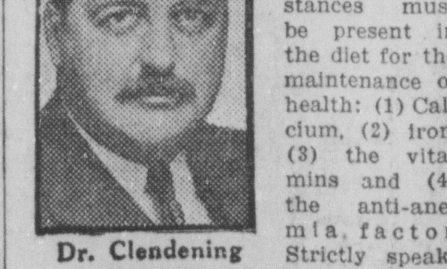

DIET AND HEALTH

Minerals, Other Substances Needed to Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE SPOKE yesterday of the possibility that a number of obscure diseases could be due to food deficiencies—to the absence of certain things in the diet. We know enough to say, in the present state of our knowledge, that the following substances must be present in the diet for the maintenance of health: (1) Calcium, (2) Iron, (3) the vitamins, (4) the anti-anemia factor. Strictly speaking, it is impossible to say that the last must be present in the diet, because the body furnishes it and stores it in the liver, but we know that when a certain type of anemia occurs, the blood can be brought back to normal by feeding animal liver, which contains this anti-anemia factor.

The inter-relationships of these various disease factors are very complicated, and it may be that the formation of a necessary hormone in the body is dependent upon very complicated dietary factors. For instance, there is a disease in dogs known as "black tongue," which can be produced by the same diet which apparently causes pellagra in man. If this diet, however, is fed to hogs, they develop, not black tongue, but a curious form of anemia similar to pernicious anemia in man. This hints at the fact that the anti-anemia factor may be dependent upon elements in the diet or, in short, upon a completely balanced diet.

Case Illustrates Point

A case illustrating these complicated inter-relationships is that of a woman who had marked anemia, as well as neuritis. She had been subjected to digestive upsets a good part of her life and was easily fatigued. Her blood showed an anemia of the type associated with iron deficiency. She had been on an incomplete and poorly balanced diet for years on account of her digestive complaints: she had not eaten meat since childhood, and ate very few vegetables. When her diet was reconstructed in accordance with our knowledge of a balanced diet, both the anemia and the neuritis cleared up.

In many of these patients it is necessary to restore the digestive functions to normal before improvement takes place.

Another case is that of a woman who had five children in rapid succession. At the age of 22 she was found to have anemia and numbness and weakness of the hands and feet. She lived in a mill town, under poor conditions, on a very limited diet for economic reasons. The rapidly succeeding pregnancies had been a severe drain upon her food store. When her diet was rearranged and balanced, her symptoms promptly cleared up.

supervisor, the pupils of the Pickaway-twp high school presented its two act musical comedy, "Sailor Maids" to a capacity audience Friday evening.

Operettas are semi-annual affairs of the school and the public in general looks forward to their presentations as real musical treats.

In the first act of the comedy last night the life guards and sailor maids made a beautiful picture in their gaily colored uniforms, and in the second act they were sophisticated looking in their beautiful evening dresses and dress suits. Their voices blended well, and showed results of splendid training.

Miss Radcliffe was assisted by Miss Rosemary Boggs as piano accompanist who was ably supported by Floyd Elliot of Capital university.

The appropriate stage scenery and settings were designed and painted by Lee A. Smith, local artist, whose talent is greatly appreciated.

Besides the separate boys' and girls' choruses, the special cast of characters included Paul McKenzie, Kathryn Temple, Eleanor Drolsbach, Mary Stuckey, Nelson Warner, Charles Mowery Jr., Jack Rhoades, Phillip Wilson, and Richard Duvall. Each portrayed his or her part in a very pleasing manner.

The designer, Ernest Dryden, had the Renaissance in mind when he created it. It is made of black taffeta, and is high waisted, the narrow, upstanding ruffle heading the skirt. Book Review Friday

An enthusiastic and appreciative audience was present Friday evening at the Presbyterian church to hear Mrs. Depew Head review "North to the Orient" by Anne Lindbergh. This was the third of a series of reviews being sponsored by the Westminster Bible class.

Previous to the review Mrs. Head gave a short description of four books, which the audience had the privilege of voting for, as their choice, for her final review of the season in April.

Displaying her usual histrionic skill in her portrayals of characters and conditions, she was even more appealing in the unfolding of this masterpiece of travel and adventure.

Mrs. Head, voicing the universal prominence of this book, stated that for 28 weeks the last season it outsold all other non-fiction books and may even surpass the sales of "Anthony Adverse," within a few months.

In considering its literary appeal, some might think its sales soared because of the prominence of the author, the place her husband has gained in world achievements and the fact that she is ranked as one of the ten most outstanding women in America. However this has nothing to do with its popularity. The book stands on its own feet, noted for its grace of prose, its poetical appreciative, illuminating freshness and delicate fallacies, in other words Anne Lindbergh knows how to tell a story with simplicity of style, in her description of the peoples of the various countries. She also depicts without realization her own sterling qualities of naturalness, void of boredom and sophistication.

The book assures you from the beginning that it is not the usual travel book. No technical account of accomplishments and no geographical survey is given.

The author gives an inside vision of the back stairs of aviation which is even more important than the front stairs and proves the fairy tale of yesterday is the facts of today.

In the book Anne interestingly related her reaction to the curious crowds that thronged about them prior to their departure into the country mapped out by she and her husband. They chose the circle course from New York to Tokyo, or the shortest route between the two points.

She told of the fond farewell from her home folk in North Haven, Me., how all the neighbors had come to see them off.

Later when Anne flies on a pleasure trip as she looks from her plane and sees the surging crowds below and the motor cars that travel like droves of beetles, she wonders why life isn't simple, beautiful and quiet. Watching them as if through a glass bottomed bucket on a tempestuous sea, she is able to make comparisons, and meditate on the vastness of it all. She has seen and known them all on this continent and that, and she longs for the peace and quiet she enjoyed on that long itinerary into a new world as fresh as new fallen snow, where human being had never trod. Aviation opens paths yet unknown, via the air we may see it all.

Metropolitan to Resume Spring Concerts May 16

Precedent of 51 Years Blasted By Action; Pat O'Brien to Be on Jolson Program; Ethel Merman Returns

After 51 years of locked doors during spring seasons, the Metropolitan Opera House will once more be opened for performances. Not only will New Yorkers attend the revived series, the entire nation will hear them starting May 16 when they go on the air over coast-to-coast National Broadcasting Company works.

Each Saturday matinee of the spring season will be broadcast over alternating nation wide networks. The first Saturday matinee on May 16 will be heard over an NBC-WJZ network, the following week over an NBC-WEAF network, and so on.

This season, to be presented at popular prices, is planned to give opera-goers opportunity to hear their favorite works sung by the most talented young American singers. The post-season has been made possible through an agreement made by the Metropolitan Opera Company with the Juilliard Musical Foundation a year ago. The committee in charge of the enterprise consists of Mrs. Marcia Davenport, Dr. John Erskine and Edward Wardell, with Edward Johnson, General Manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, serving as president pro tem.

No announcement has been made as to personnel other than that the roster of principals will consist mainly of the young American singers of the Metropolitan who have not been heard in leading roles during the regular season, with certain "stars" as occasional "guests." "Carmen" and "Il Trovatore" have been mentioned for production together with English versions of "Gian-Schiuch," "The Bartered Bride" and Gluck's "Orfeo e Euridice." It is understood that the regular Metropolitan orchestra and chorus will be used. As the New York opera house is now air-conditioned it is probable that this season will continue as long as public patronage will justify.

Pat O'Brien Guest

Al Jolson will present drama by Pat O'Brien, dashing leading man of the screen; comedy by the hesitant Sterling Holloway; songs by Irene Taylor; and an interview with Abe Roth, Hollywood prize fight announcer, in Chateau on Saturday, March 28. The full-hour variety show with Jolson doubling as master of ceremonies and singing star will be broadcast over an NBC-WEAF network at 9:30 p. m. EST.

Merman With Bernie

Ethel Merman, vivacious radio, stage and screen torch singer, will appear with Ben Bernie and All the Lads Tuesday, March 31 from 10:30 to 11:30 EST.

Before leaving for Hollywood to star in the movie successes, "Anything Goes" and "Strike Me Pink," Ethel was the star of the famous radio show, "Rhythm at Eight," but her appearance with the Old Maestro marks her return to the air this season.

Ethel is hailed as the real triple star of this country. Besides her work in the movies and the radio she is equally well known for her stage successes, singing the lead in such popular shows as "George White's Scandals," "Take A Chance," and "Anything Goes."

To welcome her properly Ben and the Lads have prepared some of the newest song hits of the year for Ethel's magic voice.

STARS OF STATE MEET ON TRACK; OWENS TO ENTER

High School Invitational Contests Planned; Peacock Rivalry Resumed

COLUMBUS, March 28.—(UP)—Stars of Ohio scholastic track ranks will receive their first big test of the season tonight when two of the state's outstanding invitational meets are held at Toledo and Cleveland.

The fifth annual University of Toledo meet is expected to attract entrants from upward of 30 schools, while 700 athletes were listed for competition in the 13th. Annual Cleveland Interscholastic meet.

Toledo Scott, for the past two seasons the state scholastic champion and winner of the Toledo invitation meet three times since its inception, was favored to retain its title. Scott has won the event every year except 1933 when Cleveland Lakewood took the championship.

Thousands Strong
Scott's sternest opposition was expected to come from Sandusky and Toledo DeVillbiss.

Included among the other Class A schools with entrants were Toledo Libbey, Lima Central, Elyria, Tiffin Columbian, Mansfield, Greenville and Bryan.

The Class B winner in 1935 was Delta. It will return to make a defense of its title.

At Cleveland the schoolboy stars in track events will attempt to emulate the performances established by competitors in the preliminary track events Thursday when three records were broken.

The outstanding effort was the six foot five inch high jump of Wesley Allen, Glenview. Allen's leap threw into discard the old mark of six feet one inch held jointly by Jesse Owens and Dave Albritton, now at Ohio State.

Shot Put Mark Set
The other records were made in the shot put by Sam Goldman, John Adams, and Ed Kasputis, Euclid Shore.

One of the special features of the Cleveland meet will be the renewal of the rivalry between Jesse Owens and Eulace Peacock, Tennis star and conqueror of the Ohio State ace in the national A. A. U. at Omaha last summer. Owens and Peacock will face each other in a 50 yard dash.

STAKE RACES SET FOR GRAND CIRCUIT MEET

COLUMBUS, March 28.—(UP)—Two stake races, each with a purse of $3,500, are included among the early closing events to be raced at the Grand Circuit trotting meet in connection with the Ohio State fair here Aug. 31 to Sept. 5.

The headline races will be the Geers stake for two year old pacers and a similar race for three year old pacers. Entries for these have already closed. Entries for 12 other early closing events will be received until April 15.

CUNNINGHAM FORCED

PORTLAND, Ore., March 28.—(UP)—A blazing sprint on the last lap last night gave Glenn Cunningham of Kansas a victory over Sam McCaughey of University of Oregon in a mile race which featured the Hill Military academy's fifth annual indoor relay carnival.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. A. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

MAKING 5-HEARTS

SOMETIMES experience with a special type of holding is necessary to play it to best advantage. This was the case with my partner sitting South, with a contract of 5-Hearts to play, doubled by West, who never doubted unless she felt certain of defeating the contract. The opening lead was the Ace of clubs. An experienced player can fulfill the contract readily, without dummy-play. No declarer unfamiliar with the type of hand should be expected to play it right.

Indians and Cards?

The annual "guessing" contest concerning major league ball teams is on.—One of these days the Cleveland Indians are going to break out in a fever that will be unstoppable.—Maybe this is the year.—However, aid is needed in the catching department before the Clevelanders can claim a title.—We'd like to see St. Louis and Cleveland in the world series ***

JOHNSON'S WORK WORRIES MCCARTHY; ERRORS HURT

ST. PETERBURG, Fla., March 28.—(UP)—Added to Manager Joe McCarthy's worries is the fact that Roy Johnson appears to be miscast in left field. Johnson's early season performances indicate that he is not sure on ground balls—and anything that trickles through the left fielder in Yankee stadium will travel far. In yesterday's game with the Bees, Johnson made two errors. He let Cucuccinello's single go through for a three-bagger and he dropped a foul fly. Pat Malone and Bump Hadley are to pitch against the Bees today.

"GAS HOUSE GANG" LOSES TO WASHINGTON SENATORS

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 28.—(UP)—The Washington Nationals were jubilant today over their 8 to 4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, snapping a three-game losing streak, and high in praise of Rookie Third Baseman Buddy Lewis. The Nats' two mound aces, Whitehill and Newsom, collaborated in subduing the "gas house gang."

Zwilling Talks Pennant For Kansas City Blues

Strong Receiving Corps, Good Pitchers Enrolled; Outer Garden Only Spot in Need of Reinforcement

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 28.—(UP)—Manager Edward Harrison (Dutch) Zwilling brought the Kansas City Blues in tied for third last year, and is talking championship terms this season.

"The Little Dutchman" isn't promising a championship, but believes with good luck and few injuries he will have a contender in the race—which will be something new for Kansas City baseball fans.

Particularly promising pitchers and catchers, and average player talent through and through showed up on the Blues' spring training.

The catching staff appears second to none in the Association, with Ed Madjeski ruling as the ace, and George Susce right behind him as one of the Double A's best prospects.

No little aid to the rather formidable pitching staff should come from the two able catchers.

Lots of pitchers will win more games than old Wilcy Moore, but none will give fans more satisfaction than when the grey-thatched veteran breaks into the win column. Zwilling said Moore will start plenty of games and get more than his share of relief tossing.

Other pitchers include Larry Irving, who is having trouble with his legs; Vance Cauble, Hal Smith, Carl Fischer, Joe Vance, Phil Page, Howard Cook and Johnny Niggeling.

The pitchers and catchers have gained some box-office appeal in Kansas City, which for some years has been one of the most needed

DEMPSEY'S MAN DEFEATS 'HOPE'

Burman Drops Buddy Knox of Dayton in Fifth Round

CHICAGO, March 28.—(UP)—Clarence (Red) Burman, grinning Irish protégé of Jack Dempsey, today dangled another promising "white hope's" scalp at his belt after a spectacular five-round knockout over Buddy Knox of Dayton, O.

Burman, a vicious body punisher, hammered at Knox for four full rounds before he fired at Buddy's head and dropped him with a left hook after 1 minute, 11 seconds of the fifth round.

Burman's previous decision over Billy Treest, who had licked Jack Kearns' Hank Bath, knocked down one of the stadium matchmakers' biggest buildups.

With seven consecutive victories, Knox was leading the tournament when he faced the "Burman test."

He rushed Burman in the first round and tagged him several times with a flicking left jab to the face. Burman, however, repeatedly tied up his heavier opponent and flailed him unmercifully in the clinches.

Knox pedaled away after a body beating in the second round and stayed clear of Burman for two rounds. In the fifth, Buddy again started slowly, but came in close and lashed at Burman with both hands. Red unleashed a furious body attack and as Knox backed into the ropes to cover up, he caught Buddy with a quick crisscross to the jaw and felled him for the count.

assets of the Blues. Also Dale Alexander and a few others who clout the ball occasionally kept the crowds up pretty well last year, and have shown nothing to diminish their appeal.

Alexander appears a certainty for first base, with Ham Schulte at second, Eddie Marshall or Ray French at short and probably Marty Hopkins, formerly with the White Sox, at third.

Joe Valente, who plays any infield position except first base, brought enthusiastic reports from the training camp, where he uncorked some fancy fielding and fair batting. He may replace Hopkins to land a regular job at the hot corner.

Ed McCulloch, who was farmed out to Dallas in the Texas League last year by Chicago, has been obtained for outfield duty to round out a group that already included Russ Scarritt, and Al Marchand.

DIZZY DEAN'S WALKOUT COSTS HIM $100 FINE

LAKELAND, Fla., March 28.—(UP)—Condit Dizzy Dean, Cardinal pitching ace, today agreed to pay a $100 fine levied by Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis for his "walkout" on an exhibition game last fall arranged by Joe Engel, owner of the Chattanooga Lookouts in the Southern association.

Dizzy, usually an articulate fellow, had nothing to say.

The incident occurred while Dizzy was on a barnstorming tour at the end of last season. He took one look at the scanty crowd in the Chattanooga ball park and refused to walk out on the field.

Commissioner Landis ordered him to "pay up within 10 days."

BOWLING NEWS

Two Circleville bowling teams won matches from Chillicothe foes this week, the Coca Colas winning, 2602 to 2485, and the Circleville Oils copping a 2430-2226 contest.

John Boggs was high for the Coca Colas with 585 while M. Gordon with 515 paced the Circleville Oils.

Mykrantz Drugs continued in the race for city league honors by dropping the Coca Colas in two out of three matches this week. Scores were lower than usual although the Coca Colas bunched pins in the second session to topple 926. Vining for the Drugs hit 204 and 205 but sandwiched a 138 to have only a 547 total.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Local Democrats held pole-raising?

Older Democrats of Circleville will remember the gay pole-raising held after election victories. A tin rooster and pictures of candidates were placed on the high pole. The affair included band music, speeches and on some occasions, fireworks and a barbecue. One of the largest pole-raising events ever held in Circleville was at the corner of Court and Water-sts. Residents report the last raising was held more than 35 years ago.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

A new day has dawned for jazz music. A new rhythm, a new interpretation has come to the fore and is taking America by storm. It is called "swing," but exactly what it is, no one seems to know.

Even its leading exponents, like Louis Armstrong, Paul Whiteman, Benny Goodman, Louis Prima and Ed Farley and Mike Riley, composers of "The Music Goes 'Round and Around," who, with their song appear with Harry Richman, Rochelle Hudson, Michael Bartlett, and Walter Connolly in Columbia's new musical extravaganza, "The Music Goes 'Round," showing Sunday at the Cliftona theatre, admit that it is an indefinable style.

In "The Music Goes 'Round" halled as the "show of shows," filled to the brim with entertainment surprises, great stars and specialty headliners, Farley and Riley appear in an important musical sequence. "Swing" is given recognition; for the boys "swing it" with their original "swing band," which first brought the infectious song, "The Music Goes 'Round and Around," to the attention of music-minded America. It is a genuine "swing" song, "Life Begins When You're in Love," "Suzannah," "Rolling Along," "There'll Be No South," and "Let's Go" are other selections in the parade of song hits featured in the big show.

A GOOD REPRESENTATIVE

A Negro servant of the rather worldly variety remained away from his duties without excuse, only to show up one morning with the apology that he had been initiated the day before as one of the deacons in his church.

On being reminded of his seeming unfitness, he stated that "the rough element in the congregation just naturally demanded representation."

RECIPES

Broiled Hamburg Steak
Baked Potatoes
Onions Cabbage Carrot Salad
Cottage cheese Pie Coffee
Few housewives appreciate the diversity of uses for cottage cheese in the daily menu. There are many types of salads in which cottage cheese may be used, but there also are many other ways in which this healthful delicacy can be served. One of the tempting forms in which to prepare cottage cheese is in a pie, such as the recipe given here.

Today's Recipes

Cottage Cheese Pie—One and one-half cups cottage cheese, four tablespoons melted butter, one-half cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one tablespoon flour, grated rind of one lemon, two egg yolks (unbeaten), one-half cup raisins, one-half cup chopped nuts. Combine in the order given, mix thoroughly and pour into an unbaked pie shell. Bake at 400 degrees for ten minutes, then reduce temperature to 350 degrees and continue baking until filling is firm (about 30 minutes). Fresh fruits such as cherries and currants may be used in place of raisins. This recipe is sufficient to fill an eight-inch pie shell.

FACTS AND FANCIES

To Soften Butter
Hard butter, needed for lunches, baking or table use may be quickly and easily softened. Fill a bowl with boiling water. When bowl is very hot, pour out the water and quickly invert steaming bowl over the piece of butter to be softened. If butter is very hard, bowl may have to be heated a second time. Butter treated in this way is softened but never melted.

Dainty Addition

A blanket cover, placed under the spread on the guest room bed, will make the bed as dainty at night as by day. It should be thin, made of one thickness of outing flannel embroidered with silk, satin edged with lace, or washable silk pongee or rayon. Put the blanket cover over the blanket and fold the top sheet back about six inches over the blanket cover. Then put on the spread.

Honey or maple syrup mixed with whipped cream makes an excellent "topper" for baked apples.

Never-Fail Brownies

One-half cup butter, one cup sugar, two eggs, beaten; one-half cup flour, two squares melted chocolate, one cup chopped nut meats, one teaspoon vanilla extract. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually. Beat eggs well (do not separate) and add to butter and sugar mixture. Stir in flour, then nut meats and vanilla. Bake in greased pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about thirty-five minutes. Cut in squares before cool.

CLIFF BUNN ARRESTED

Cliff Bunn, 49, Circleville R. F. D., was lodged in the city jail early Saturday for intoxication. Mayor W. J. Graham said he would be lectured Saturday afternoon and released.

THE CAMDEN RUBY MURDER

ADAM BLISS

COPYRIGHT—RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Dow Van Every, a collector of rare jewels, invites an acquaintance, Gary Maughan, and the latter's old friend, Margalo Younger, an actress, to his home to view the priceless Camden ruby. At Van Every's both Margalo, sitting before the fire, and Maughan are impressed with the size and brilliance of the rare stone. Van Every objects in vain when Margalo hangs the ruby from her neck, explaining it is called a "murder stone," and then proceeds to relate its gruesome history. Van Every pauses in the midst of his story to ask if he should continue. Margalo apparently is so engrossed she does not answer him but Maughan urges him to tell the rest. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 5

"THE JEWELERS of Europe talked about the great Camden ruby, now missing for many years. One in Amsterdam claimed he had the ruby, but when he showed it to others, they laughed at him. This could not be the ruby that was so famous. There was no hole in it, no chain, the stone was not large enough. His ruby was a big one, but the Camden ruby was huge, larger than a pigeon's egg. A woman could clasp her fingers around it, but not shut them over it. The gem the Amsterdam jeweler had was sold in 1647 or thereabouts, I'm not sure of the date, for a small fortune as the Camden ruby. Later it was proved an imitation because in London the following year the Camden ruby was worn by a woman. The ruby which was mistaken for the famous one was afterwards found to be similar to the Camden, but smaller and unperished. It is now owned by the Rothschilders of London. It is a part of their great ruby collection which will go to the British Museum at the death of the present heir. So much for that."

"In 1649 an old man came to the house of Lady Morley in London with a jewel for sale. She saw him, of course, as she loved jewels and had many of them. She was fabulously wealthy and a great favorite. It was just before the trial and execution of Charles the First. Cromwell's hand was already heavy on the land."

"I say she admitted the old man, and saw what he had. Without a word she paid him his price in gold. The stone he took from his dirty pouch, he whispered to her, was the Camden ruby. She had never seen the like of it before, and even if the man's price was high, the jewel was worth it. She would have a set in a great necklace."

"I suppose she asked the man where he got the ruby. I suppose he told her something, probably not the truth. He was never seen again. It was night when she bought the stone, but she summoned her maid and ordered her to find her jeweler and bring him to her immediately. She had great plans for the ruby, and was going to have her jeweler design a necklace that would set London talking."

"The maid saw the stone on her mistress' neck, saw her lean toward her mirror to admire it the more. Lady Morley was a beautiful woman. I think I have said so."

"The grumbling maid hustled out through the dark streets to find the jeweler. I rather imagine she did not relish her journey that night. It was hardly safe for a woman to be alone on the streets at night, but her mistress had insisted she go herself, and that she say nothing to the jeweler about her purchase."

"The jeweler, one Hans Clap, might have been in bed when the little maid came. However, he arose, dressed and followed the girl back. The girl had been gone perhaps several hours. We can't tell. Distances in old London were not made in a few minutes by motor."

"Breathlessly the maid led Hans Clap up the stairs and knocked on Lady Morley's door. There was no answer. She knocked again, then opened it wide and staggered back when she saw her mistress lying on the floor, her hand cupped around the ruby."

"She was dead—there was a great knife wound in her heart, but the ruby was in her hand, and at last there was a scandal, of course, but it was hushed up by Lord Morley, the husband of Nell. We do not find much of the story in records of that time. Perhaps the reason is that the country was in upheaval, and plain Cromwell frowned on the Morleys and their famous jewel. We bore little fruit besides the exchange of name-calling statements between him and Hauck."

Hoffman delayed convoking the pardons court to which Hauptmann has appealed for commutation of his sentence on the basis of newly discovered evidence. No one, not even C. Lloyd Fisher chief of Hauptmann's counsel, seemed to expect that the pardons court would interfere with the Bronx carpenter's sentence. It refused to do so in January, 7 to 9, with Hoffman not voting. Fisher had display more hope last night than during pessimistic moments earlier in the day, but he said there was "nothing new."

fu politically over the body of a murdered child, and I feel the governor's motives are purely political," he said.

Hoffman is a Republican and Wilentz and Hauck are Democrats. Wilentz and Hauck, and Democratic members of the legislature, have charged for months that Hoffman's interest in Hauptmann's case was chargeable to the governor's intention to oust the superintendent of state police, Col. Norman H. Schwarzkopf. Hoffman hoped by smirching Schwarzkopf's record as investigator of the Lindbergh kidnaping to justify removing him.

The governor's trip to Hauptmann's old home in New York Bronx Thursday to investigate the authenticity of a rail in the famous kidnaping's ladder apparently have a hint, though, that Morley did not know of his wife's purchase, that he would not have let her buy it if he had known.

"Van Every, something is wrong"

"Someone had killed Nell. That was certain. But I could not have been robbery, for the robber could easily have made away with the ruby. Never in any of the deaths occasioned by the ruby, had the stone been stolen. Strange, isn't it? Perhaps Nell had enemies. Undoubtedly she had. Perhaps she was killed for another reason than the ruby. I don't know, but I've read everything I can find on her death. I'll tell you it isn't much."

"I wanted the ruby years ago, 15 years ago, when first I heard about it—but that comes later, in due time. Lord Morley sold the ruby after his wife's violent death to the Earl of Barrimore, and it remained in the possession of his family for some 200 years. The original earl who bought it wrote a paper much like the one John, Lord of Camden, had written, warning whoever might inherit it that it was never to be worn by anyone. He was afraid of the jewel, but was fascinated by it. There are tales that when he was alone, he used to take the stone from its casket, which fitted into a secret cleft in the wall of his chamber, and look at it for hours at a time, trying to solve the mystery of its red depths. A stone will fascinate one, I know."

"Much misfortune came to the first Earl of Barrimore. His wife fled with his best friend, his daughter defied her father, and married a man of her own choice."

"A son finally came into the property after his father had died of a slow, lingering disease. He, however, we know nothing of. And we hear nothing more of him. More heirs followed, but still misfortune came to the Barrimores. They had been immensely wealthy. Now, in 1860, they were poor, and the family line had died out. A nephew far removed came into the empty castle, for none of the furnishings remained. They had been sold, one by one, for debts. Not a picture remained of the great gallery. The grounds were neglected. The castle in ruin. The nephew who took the title knew that at one time a famous ruby had been the prize possession of the Barrimores. For a hundred years it had been lost. Whether it had been sold, he did not know. He rather supposed so, but was going to look for it anyway."

"The castle was completely torn down, stone by stone, and at last the ruby was found in a tiny chamber, a great dark, shadowy room. In a secret cleft in the wall, near where a bed had once stood, the box containing the Camden ruby was found. Some Earl of Barrimore on his death bed had been unable to tell the secret hiding place to his heir. There were evidences that the castle had been searched before for the jewel.

"Mark, the new earl, immediately found a purchaser, so he passes from the picture. He made a fortune out of the stone, and as far as I can learn, left for America with his fortune to reinvest it here."

"He sold the jewel in 1860, to Sir Henry Moorehouse, a London banker, with a yen for stones, especially rubies. The price was $5,000, a big sum in those days. Moorehouse did not haggle over the price; he thought it was cheap. With the ruby came the box, and in the box was the warning the first Earl of Barrimore had written."

"He planned having the ruby reset for his wife, but when she heard that he had bought it, she persuaded him to sell it, which he did. Since 1860, the stone has not remained in anyone's hands very long. There is a stigma attached to it, a stigma that perhaps will never leave it."

"The curious thing about the stone, one I can't understand, is that the chain is old, and the jewel has never been reset. There is still the original piercing. These days one immediately has a stone fixed up, recut, and a specially would one have the Camden ruby recut. For the cutting is frightful. It spoils the jewel from a jeweler's standpoint."

"Also another strange fact: When I bought the ruby, the box was rather new, certainly not the one the first Earl of Barrimore, Mark, too, if I remember, placed it in. But under the ruby was the paper he had penned. I have it here in the box. He touched the box in his lap. The writing is rather illegible and faint, but the paper, although yellowed, is good. He swallowed the remainder of his cognac and sighed rather deeply as he reached over and put his glass beside the other two on the small table."

"Gory tale, eh, Margalo?" I said, looking at her to see how she had reacted toward it. But her position was unchanged, her eyes staring ahead, her hands in her lap. The ruby glowed against her skin. It seemed to me that she was in a trance, so quiet was she, so tense. I reached out my hand and touched her arm—she was only a few feet away."

"Margalo! What's the matter?" Her bare arm seemed clammy, cold. She did not move. No answer.

"Margalo!" I cried, shaking her gently. The expression in her eyes did not change, nor did she move. It was as if she had not heard me.

"Van Every, something is wrong!" I put my hands on her forehead. It felt peculiar to me, cold like her hands.

Van Every's eyes met mine. They were wide with fear, as I suppose mine were. His lips were twisted, queerly.

'Flivver' Planes Studied By Automobile Builders

companies produce under 200 craft a year. They said automobile engines now manufactured by the five companies can propel a two-place cabin plane at more than 100 miles an hour.

Several recent developments emphasize the interest of automobile companies in the possibilities of future production of planes.

Experimental licenses have been granted to the Ford company for a test monoplane powered by the ordinary Ford auto engine.

The Hudson-Essex Terraplane engine has been used in a plane flown on several tests flights by Amelia Earhart.

Another Approved
The regular Plymouth motor has been granted an approved type certificate by the commerce department, showing that it is considered suitable for airplane use.

One American and one French manufacturer have already built such planes. A. B. Green of Billings, Mont., has built two planes to be sold for $700 each and has applied for approved type certificates for them.

A flivver type craft called the "Poul De Ciel" or sky flea, has been built in France and about 800 sold. Two are being used in America. They sell for about $400 or $500.

FOUR YOUTHS CONFESS KILLING DR. PEACOCK
CHICAGO, March 28.—(UP)—Detectives thumbed through records of 200 robberies today and planned to question four shaken youths who, they said, confessed killing Dr. Silber C. Peacock, prominent child specialist, for the $26 they filched from his pockets.

Emu Reck, 19, collapsed after admitting his part in the murder which officers declared the most baffling of the year. Because of his serious condition, doctors were unable to determine immediately the cause for his collapse.

The three others, held in jail, are Durland Nash and Robert Goethe, both 19, and Michael Livingston, 17.

WEEK-END REST PROVIDED GIRL IN MURDER CASE

NEW YORK, March 28.—(UP)—A weekend court recess won a thank you from Vera Stretz today from the ordeal of describing the "brutal and unnatural" practices which she said forced her to kill wealthy Dr. Fritz Gebhardt. The blonde art student was so unnerved by her recital yesterday of an association with Gebhardt in which she came to love him "very, very dearly," that fatherly Judge Cornelius F. Collins adjourned her trial until Monday in fear that she might collapse if recalled today.

Judge Collins leaned frequently over his scarred oak bench yesterday, wiping his high, bald head with a handkerchief in a nervous gesture of distress, to help Miss Stretz over difficult bits of testimony.

RUMOR IS DENIED

'Flivver' Planes Studied By Automobile Builders

Low Cost Air Transportation Assured Through Use of Ordinary Motors; Experimental Licenses Given Ford; Test Flights Already Staged

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(UP)—American automobile manufacturers are working on plans to put ordinary automobile engines into "flivver" airplanes to be sold at low cost to the average man. At least five companies, the United Press was reliably informed are interested. They were understood to be the Ford Motor Co., General Motors, Graham-Paige, Chrysler and Hudson.

The significance of the studies by motor companies lies in the ability of big automobile concerns to swing into mass production of small, cheap planes whenever their experiments make such action feasible.

Some experts said that such a plane on the market could be sold so cheaply that the number of aircraft in the United States probably would be quadrupled within a short time.

Angles Discussed
These experts cited the following to support their views:

- 1—At present there are 7300 licensed planes in the nation, excluding army and navy.
- 2—Large scale production facilities already available to automobile companies would permit much lower prices than at present.
- 3—Automobile companies already have established distributing points which would—without new cost—permit cheap distribution and sales campaigning.

Experts emphasized the difference between large scale and present production by airplane manufacturers, the largest of which

SENIORS HONOR FRANK FISCHER

Circleville Graduating Class to Dedicate "Circle"

The esteem in which Frank Fischer, superintendent, is held by the graduating class of Circleville high school was expressed today when The Circle staff, annual publication, announced it would be dedicated to him. A recent vote of the senior class determined to whom honor should be paid.

The 1935 "Circle" was dedicated to the memory of E. L. Daley, who died in the middle of the school year.

Much work has been done on this year's annual. All group pictures were taken of various school organizations during the last week. In addition, individual pictures of senior class members, pictures of the nine honored in "Who's Who" were taken.

44 TAKE SENIOR TESTS IN HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Forty-four Circleville and Pickaway-co high school seniors were undergoing rigid examination today in the Circleville high school. The occasion is the annual senior scholarship test.

Nine of the entrants are Circleville students, while the other 35 are from the various rural schools.

Subjects used in the test are mathematics, physical science, social science, English, and reading.

BRICK SHORTAGE HALTS PROJECT

Court-St Cleared of Equipment to Permit Traffic

Shortage of new bricks forced suspension of paving operations on the Court-st project at noon Saturday.

Paving was completed to Main-st. All equipment was cleared from the street Saturday afternoon so traffic could be resumed. Workers will continue tearing up the street north of the intersection. A shipment of 200,000 new bricks from Nelsonville has been delayed about a week. The main square will be opened to traffic until the new bricks arrive.

Mayor W. J. Graham conferred with engineers Saturday to learn where white or buff bricks could be obtained for the historical design to be placed in the main square. A $5 prize has been offered for the best design submitted.

DEADLINE NEAR, 1,000 MUST FILE TAX RETURNS

Approximately 2,000 personal tax returns were listed with the county auditor at noon Saturday, leaving more than 1,000 still to be filed before the deadline, Tuesday evening. Employees of the office were busy Saturday making out returns. They urged residents who have not filed to do so as soon as possible to evade a last minute rush.

The employees called attention to one of the new features on the blank requiring listing of grain handled. This feature applies especially to truck operators who purchase grain from farmers to sell to elevators. This grain must be listed. Truck operators should check their records before filing their returns.

MERCURY FALLS TO 34; SCIOTO CLIMBS FOOT

Winter sneaked back in Circleville Friday night to take a late punch at the mercury. It fell to 34 degrees, accompanying a heavy frost. A frost at this season can cause little damage. The river was eight feet above normal, Saturday morning, one foot higher than Friday.

MAYOR GRAHAM STANDS AGAINST DEVICE RETURN

"Machines Are Out to Stay," Official Declares, Discrediting Reports

CIVIC SUPPORT CITED

"Rumors Machines Returning False;" Ford Enforces Chillicothe Order

Gaming devices are out of Circleville and they are going to stay out.

That is the feeling of Mayor W. J. Graham despite the fact that machine owners, persons representing them, and several of their friends have been "putting" on pressure "nearly every day since the executive's orders to remove them was issued.

Only one machine, so far as officials know, remains in Circleville. That is in an uptown restaurant, and nothing has been done about forcing it out.

Order Several Weeks Old

The order to remove all devices, including slot, pinball and marble machines, was ordered issued several weeks ago in an order given verbally to Police Chief W. F. McCrady by Safety Director Charles Caskey. The order came first from Mayor Graham.

"I have received support from most of the city's leading citizens," Mayor Graham declared Saturday. "Nearly every one has been in favor of keeping the devices out of business places."

"There have been rumors and reports circulated, I understand, that I am going to allow the machines to return. But they are absolutely false," the mayor said emphatically.

Ford Enforces Decree

Mayor James E. Ford of Chillicothe has ordered absolute enforcement of his decree barring gaming devices. "These fellows who say machines are coming back don't know what they are talking about," the mayor said. "When I say stay out, I mean stay out."

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI REFUGES NEGRO STUDENTS

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 28.—(UP)—The board of curators of the University of Missouri today stood steadfast and united in denying negroes the right to enter the university.

In a meeting attended by the full board of nine, a resolution ordering S. W. Canada, registrar, to "reject and deny" the application of Lloyd L. Gaines, St. Louis negro, was adopted. Several negroes recently have demanded entrance to professional schools at the university. Gaines has brought a mandamus action to compel acceptance of his application.

The board stated that Lincoln university at Jefferson City is provided by the state for the exclusive use of negroes.

Bruno Ready for Last Date

BRUNO Richard Hauptmann goes to his death in the electric chair at Trenton State Penitentiary at 8 o'clock in the evening of March 31, bringing to an end the most dramatic episode in the history of American crime. He pays the extreme penalty four years and one month after the commission of the crime, the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Condemned Man Hopeful Something Will Happen

Hoffman Wants Wilentz to Approve Reprieve; Attorney General to Announce His Stand With Statement

TRENTON, N. J., March 28.—(UP)—A political war with control of the state police force the prize kicked Bruno Richard Hauptmann closer to the electric chair today than he has ever been before.

Whether Hauptmann will die Tuesday appeared to rest upon agreement between Attorney General David T. Wilentz and Gov. Harold G. Hoffman. Only Hauptmann, predicting calmly in his cell that "something will happen," had confidence that Wilentz and Hoffman would end a political feud vital to both of them to save him.

Wilentz promised a statement of his position today or Monday.

Governor Hoffman offered Hauptmann a reprieve last night but made it contingent upon approval by Wilentz. He said he was "more convinced than ever" that Hauptmann did not receive a trial "in line with American standards of justice," but he admitted that he did not have legal power to halt the execution.

Hauck Is Angered
While Wilentz kept silent, Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck of Flemington, who collaborated with the attorney general to convict Hauptmann, interjected a threat to take court action to compel Hauptmann's execution if Hoffman attempted to intervene.

GOVERNOR SEEKS EXCUSE TO GIVE BRUNO REPRIEVE

'Confession' of Gaston Means Believed Motive Behind Personal Appeal

U. S. POLICY "HANDS OFF"

Cummings on Vacation, But Subordinates Refuse to Discuss Abduction

TRENTON, N. J., March 28

—(UP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's last desperate plea for clemency from the New Jersey court of pardons will be heard at 11 a. m. Monday, just 24 hours before the time set for his execution for kidnaping Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

WASHINGTON, March 28

—(UP)—The department of justice has rejected a personal appeal from Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey that it reconsider the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Had the request been granted the action undoubtedly would have been followed by another reprieve for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted kidnap-killer of the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The appeal, which was made Sunday, was said to have been based on the purported "confession" letter of Gaston B. Means from his cell in Leavenworth penitentiary, together with other evidence Hoffman claimed to have uncovered.

Justice department officials, however, maintained the "hands off" policy adopted nearly two years ago when federal agencies were withdrawn from the case following a reported controversy with New Jersey authorities.

Other efforts were made during the week to persuade those in command of the justice department during the vacation of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings that the department should re-enter the case. All such efforts were unsuccessful.

Questions concerning the case, which became more and more frequent as the scheduled hour of Hauptmann's execution drew nearer, were met with "no comment." Officials were pointedly silent the minute they heard the words "Hauptmann" or "Lindbergh."

Seeking Reprieve Came
It was believed the New Jersey governor made his unsuccessful appeal in an effort to find cause for a second reprieve for the still German. The Means "confession" however, failed to impress Washington authorities. They placed little or no credence in anything Means might say.

Chicago Fears Fatalities in Election
As Kelly Machine and Dr. Bundesen
Fight Renomination of Gov. Horner

CHICAGO—The keeper of Cook county's morgue is dusting off a number of slabs in expectation of some business on primary day, April 14.

The bitterest primary fight in living memory is raging in the ranks of Chicago Democrats, due to the unceremonious dumping of Gov. Henry Horner by the Cook county machine dominated by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Pat Nash, national committeeman.

Not since 1928, when the Robert E. Crowe Republican machine was broken, has there been a really bloody election in Chicago, but newspaper editorial writers, police officials, and sideline observers now are predicting that the Democratic primary in April will be Cook county's worst.

Early Violence
Already, with several weeks still remaining in the campaign, there has been violence, including a number of assaults, window breakings, sign smashing. Violence so far in advance of voting day is unprecedented. Supporters of Governor Horner expect strong measures from him on primary day, to keep from being counted out. One thing expected from the governor is the assignment of state police to watch polling places.

One police captain expressed the private opinion today that if state police invade Chicago April 14 to protect the interests of Governor Horner, bloodshed on a wide scale will be a certainty.

A record-breaking registration confirmed widespread opinions that primary day this year will be hectic. When all revisions in polling lists have been made, there will be a registration in Chicago of not fewer than 1,700,000 votes, an all-time record for the city.

Whistling
Leaders of each faction, of course, concluded publicly that the heavy registration meant indubitably that a wave of public sentiment was washing in for them. Privately, however, every politician is whistling in the dark, with full knowledge that the big registration means a jackpot that can't go to everybody.

The fight between Governor Horner and Mayor Kelly has become so bitter that as far as publicity is concerned, Mayor Kelly's candidate for governor, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, has been all but lost in a cloud of recrimination between Horner and Kelly.

Mayor on Defensive
Kelly is not a candidate, but he is the most busy man in the campaign, defending himself against radio attacks by Governor Horner, who has surprised even his close associates with his capacity for carrying the fight to the enemy.

Kelly has been placed in a peculiarly unfortunate defense position by Governor Horner's strategy. The governor hammers on this point:

"The issue is between the Democratic voters in the primary and 'Boss' Kelly."

Dr. Bundesen, who after all is Governor Horner's opposition on the ballot, never is mentioned. Mayor Kelly himself has been forced to answer these attacks of attrition with the declaration, now becoming lame, that "the people elected me, I'm no boss."

The Battleground
The Horner forces privately hold no fear of losing to the Kelly-Nash machine downstate, and are concentrating their attack in Chicago, where they hope to win a number of wards. The greater part of the city's 50 wards are fairly well wired for the local organization, but in at least five of them contests are so bitter that it is anybody's fight.

Mayor Kelly's defense suffered at his own hands St. Patrick's day, in the opinion of many observers here. He referred at a dinner in St. Louis to that "distinguished Irishman, Mr. O'Horne."

Governor Horner immediately seized on the implication of racial hatred inherent in the alleged remark, and termed Kelly a "boa constructor." The governor followed with the vitriolic blast that "St. Patrick drove the snakes out of Ireland, and I'm going to drive 'Boss' Kelly out of Illinois."

There are 35 species of hawks known to live or visit in America north of Mexico.

CITY MAY SEEK TITLE
AS NEW SMOKY CITY

Pittsburgh may hold first honors as a smoky city but Circleville ran a close second Friday afternoon.

Two huge tar kettles used on the Court-st repaving project were placed near the main square Friday. In addition to the coal smoke, tar that had spilled over one of the kettles was "burned off." Billows of black smoke rolled over the square. Scores of spectators lined the sidewalks to watch the blaze.

OBITUARY

Morda Hope McDaniel, daughter of Florence and Charles Langdon, was born at Andersonville, Ohio, September 29th, 1880 and departed from this life March 23rd, 1936, age 55 years 6 months and 6 days. Mrs. McDaniel had been failing in health since May 1, 1934. Although everything was done which medical skill and loving hands could do, it was all in vain as God called her to be with Him in Heaven.

She was united in marriage to Farmer M. McDaniel, February 19, 1899 and was the mother of 14 children of which 12 survive. Ray and Palmer, Jr. of Detroit; Ralph, Kenneth, Mrs. Clarence Malone and Mrs. George Sommers of Chillicothe; Mrs. John Garber, Toledo; Mrs. William Crome of Los Angeles, Calif.; Myrtle, Lawquilla, Gretchen and Warren G. at home; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Park and Mrs. John Long of Pasadena, Calif. Two half brothers, Pearl Pettet, and Frank Kinnerman of Chillicothe.

She was a life long member of First Presbyterian Church, South Charleston.

God came to visit us today And took our darling mother away.

Over the mountain railway high, To dwell with Him up in the sky. Where the Heavenly angels sing, God's the maker and our king, It leaves us all so very sad, But I know our mother's glad.

Thou she suffered in the past, She has come to rest at last, So mother we'll be happy too, When God brings us home to you.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank all of those who helped to make the sad hours of our bereavement brighter, for the kind words spoken, to all those who gave flowers also to the undertaker, Mr. M. S. Rinehart and to Rev. L. S. Metzler for his wonderful service.

—Mr. McDaniel and family.

When given the names of a list of foods and groceries, he named the articles in the order in which they were given from memory.

Mr. Kellogg has spoken before many clubs and organizations of the country.

They will go via Baltimore and Ohio railroad, leaving Chillicothe at 5:25 p. m. April 3, in a special all-steel coach train.

A special sight-seeing trip is offered for $1.40. This includes admission to Mt. Vernon.

They will arrive in Washington at 7:00 a. m. Saturday and return home early Sunday morning.

The fare for this special trip is $4.25.

Among some of the most interesting places to be visited includes the White House, Washington's Home and Tomb, the Tidal Basin, the Washington Monument and the Government Building Triangle, old home of General Robert E. Lee, Memorial Amphitheatre and Tomb of America's Unknown Soldier.

ONE ACT PLAY TO BE GIVEN IN ASSEMBLY

Plans for the production of the one act play, "Afterwards," which was featured in the Scholastic weekly magazine, are being made for an assembly program sometime in April.

The cast of this play is composed of four members, the two main ones being Richard Harman and Anne Vlereborne. The other characters have not been chosen thus far.

The play is unlike others that have been presented at Circleville high school as it portrays the life of two people after their death.

Mr. Bowen, dramatics director, is in charge of the production.

CLASSES GET QUESTIONS

The three social civics classes, in addition to the many projects which they have completed this year, are preparing questionnaires which are to be distributed to the various school principals who are requested to distribute them to the parents of the pupils.

The questionnaire which is composed of thirty questions pertains to the coming elections and the various political problems confronting the public.

After the questionnaires are returned the social civics classes will tabulate the results and discuss their conclusions.

Mr. Jewett supervises the social civics classes.

GLEE CLUB DANCE

The date for the Boy's Glee club party has been set for April 3. It is to be a dinner dance at the Pickaway Country club.

The Boy's Glee club has made several appearances in the past year in assembly programs and at the student carnival last night.

Miss Priest is the supervisor of the club and Hilaire Haacker the pianist.

HIGH SCHOOL VISITOR'S

It has seemed like old times this week to see several of last year's seniors strolling down the halls.

As it is spring vacation in many colleges and universities some have taken this opportunity of being back in the high school class rooms.

Among those visiting were: Betty Sayre, George Speakman, Mark Maxey, Otis Mader, and Tom Kirwin.

SENIOR VOLLEY BALLERS
WIN CLASS CHAMPIONSHIP

Johnny McGinnis and his Senior volley-ballers are the 1936 class champions as a result of the hardest fought tournament staged at the high school this year.

Two teams were selected to represent each class in this year's tournament. In the final John McGinnis' senior team, met and defeated the second senior team captained by Morton Reichelderfer.

In the first game, played with six-man teams, McGinnis' crew defeated the freshman, led by Johnny Noggle. Jackson's sophomores defeated the Sophomore team led by Willard Binkley. Reichelderfer's Senior boys downed the sophomores captained by Earl Garner. Richard Moon led his freshmen to a victory over Willard Good's Junior team.

In the semi finals, played on a long court with eight man teams Dave Jackson's sophomores were defeated by McGinnis' seniors while Moon's team was beaten by Reichelderfer's team.

By virtue of the senior's victory over all other volley-ballers seniors have again defended their laurels and remain undefeated in any intramural sport since they were sophomores. Even when representing their Freshman class they annexed every title except the Roy's Class basketball championship.

Composing the Championship Senior outfit are Captain McGinnis, Dick Melson, Cecil Andrews, Robert Good, James Henderson, Ned Harden, Junior Scott and Harvey Sweyer.

Compliments should also go to Coach Jack Landrum for his excellent manner in which he handled the tournament.

A large crowd, consisting mostly of High School students, attended the tournament.

STUDENT CARNIVAL HELD AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY

Something new and novel was enjoyed by students and townspeople alike when the various organizations of Circleville high school presented a Student Carnival last night.

Each of the High School organizations presented an act, entertainment or novelty in the various rooms in the building and a small admission was charged.

The money made from last night's enterprises will be turned over to the Student council in order to sponsor high school parties or activities.

Many interesting acts were presented by the Girl Reserves, Hi-Y, Jr. Girl Reserves, E. M. S. and the Stodge club ranging in variety from fortune-tellers to Duck Ponds and Bingo games.

After all the individual acts and novelties and shows an Auditorium program was presented by several of the students.

MCGINNIS, JACKSON ARE NEW STOOGES MEMBERS

The "Stooges" reinstated John McGinnis and voted in Dave Jackson at their weekly meeting held at the home of Hilaire Haacker Monday evening. McGinnis was given an honorable discharge a year ago because of his work.

Final preparations were completed for the "Stooges" participation in the Student Carnival. John Griffith, Hilaire Haacker, Junior Sweyer, and Willard Friley were appointed to take charge of the Bingo game. Plans for the "House of Terror" were completed.

Mr. Jewett was a guest of the "Stooges."

NATION LEAGUE PLANNED

The fourth period Sophomore class held a "League of Nations" meeting Friday of last week. The question discussed was "What Is Going To Be Done About The German Occupation of The Rhineland?"

June Harrington acted as chairman and the principal world powers were: Belgium, Ada Mae Gardner; England, Betty Heeter; Ethiopia, Thelma Welch; France, Mary McGinnis; Germany, Mildred Thelme; Italy, Dorothy Newland; Japan, Maxine Betts; Poland, Virginia Brown; and Russia, Betty Weiler.

McGroarty
Plans to Heal
Townsend Rift

Intends to Have Clements and Aged Founder Meet Next Week

WASHINGTON, March 28 — Restoration of harmony between the Townsend old-age pension organization, under fire in a congressional investigation, and the aged founder, was undertaken today by Rep. John Steven McGroarty.

McGroarty, California poet and author of the Townsend plan in Congress, revealed he would seek reconciliation between Dr. Francis E. Townsend and Robert E. Clements, who testified to large deficits after resigning from the $500,000 a year organization.

Clements resigned this week, the day after he was summoned to a house investigating committee, as secretary-treasurer of the organization which he built into 7,000 clubs with 8,000,000 paying members after Townsend suggested the idea.

McGroarty's efforts were made during a recess of the committee to permit Clements to assemble additional financial data to add to the two days of testimony in which he has revealed much of the "inside story" of the OARP.

"I will take the leadership in the peace movement," McGroarty said. "I think Dr. Townsend and Clements will get together in the face of this unwarranted attack by the investigation upon us."

Dr. Townsend is due here early next week to follow Clements in testifying before the house committee. McGroarty indicated he would seek to bring the two to turn to the fold next week.

Clements was the chief organizer of the movement that he said had a total income of $951,963.90 since its inception 25 months ago. Since the first of this year the income, he said, has been at the rate of approximately $1,000,000 a year.

He resigned as secretary-treasurer of the OARP, a position that last year gave him an income $12,000 plus living and traveling expenses, after a dispute with Dr. Townsend involving organization participation in partisan politics.

He testified he had lived a life of comparative luxury in a $150-a-month Washington apartment, dined with nannies and dined with friends from millions of aged persons, and traveled "in style."

Churches To Confer On Funds

Meeting of Ohio Council Called for April 9; Competition is Objective

COLUMBUS, March 28—(UP)—Denominational leaders affiliated with the Ohio Council of Churches will meet here April 9 to consider action to stop competitive expenditure of home mission funds by Protestant churches of the state. Reports on mission-aid in 71 small Ohio communities will be given by sub-committees which have been studying local fields since last fall. Previously, Dr. W. R. King of New York, executive secretary of the Home Mission Council revealed numerous instances where two or more Protestant denominations are spending mission money in the same community to maintain weak, competing churches. "In a specific local community this may mean merger of aided churches in a single congregation capable of self-support, more elimination of aid, leaving the churches unchanged but dependent upon their local resources, or, if the committee finds the aided churches are not actually competitive, continuance of the present plan of operation," Dr. Lamb said. Dr. Charles L. Zorbaugh, executive secretary of the Presbyterian church in Ohio, will preside at the conference.

Spring revival begins at the Church of the Nazarene Sunday night. Evangelist Wesley Priddy of Little Rock, Ark. will preach each evening at 7:30 p. m. until after Easter. He will conduct his first service here Monday evening.

Jesus Explains the Kingdom

The first requirement of the kingdom of God on which Jesus insisted was repentance of sin. Another was fruitfulness in God's service. Those who lacked this he likened to a fruitless fig tree that must be cut down.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Another kingdom requirement was mercy. He healed a woman bent over for 18 years. But because it was the sabbath he was criticized. If it is proper to loose an ox to water it on the sabbath why refuse mercy to this woman?

Jesus likened such wrong notions of the kingdom to a mustard plant that tried to be a big tree so that evil men, like birds, found roosting places in its branches.

He also likened such false notions of the kingdom of God to leaven or yeast which a woman puts into her bread dough until it spreads through it all. Thus he warns us against wrong notions of the kingdom. (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 13:28)

Jesus Explains the Kingdom

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 29 is Luke 13:1-35; especially verses 18-30; the Golden Text being verse 29, "They shall come from the east and west, and from the north and south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.")

THE FIRST requisite to entrance into the kingdom of God is repentance, that poverty of spirit which realizes its spiritual need and hunger and thirst after righteousness. Both John the Baptist and Jesus began their preaching of the kingdom by crying, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."

So when certain people reminded Jesus of Pilate's massacre of some Galileans whose "blood was mingled with their sacrifices,"

Jesus reminded them that these folk of despised Galilee were not "sinners above all the Galileans because they suffered these things." Nor were they worse sinners than themselves. So Jesus warned them "Except ye repent ye shall all in like manner perish." He went further and reminded these folk, who were probably from Judea, and proud of it, of some 18 of their own people who had been killed in Jerusalem by the fall of the tower of Siloam, and that these were by no means "offenders above all the men that dwell in Jerusalem."

"Nay, but except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."

Fruitfulness a Kingdom Requisite
After repentance comes fruitfulness in the list of kingdom requisites. So Jesus told the story of a barren fig tree that bore its owner no fruit year after year. So he said to the vine dresser, "Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree and find none: cut it down; why doth it also cumber the ground?" For three years now Jesus had been looking for fruit on Israel, God's spiritual fig tree, and had been disappointed repeatedly. About six months later in Jerusalem, in the week of his death, he cursed that barren tree saying to it, "No man eat fruit of thee henceforth forever."

That man needs neither towers Nor armor for defense, Nor secret vaults to fly From thunder's violence:

He only can behold With unafraid eyes The horrors of the deep And terrors of the skies.

Thus scorning all the cares That fate or fortune brings, He makes the heaven his book, His wisdom heavenly things;

Good thoughts his only friends, His wealth a well-spent age, The earth his sober inn And quiet pilgrimage.

—Thomas Campion

The merry waves dance up and down and play, Sport is granted to the sea; Birds are the quisters of the empty air,

Sport is never wanting there; The ground doth smile at the spring's flowery birth. Sport is granted to the earth; The fire its cheering flame on high doth rear,

Sport is never wanting there. If all the elements, the earth, the sea, Air, and fire, so merry be Why is man's mirth so seldom and so small

Who is compounded of them all? —Abraham Cowley.

RUXTON AND HAUPTMANN

FOR every million persons in England there are fifteen murders in a single year. For every million in the United States there are eighty-seven murders. This great disparity may be explained in some degree by the heterogeneous character of this country's population, creating difficulties of law enforcement. Primarily, however, it is traceable to the unfailing efficiency with which English justice functions, compared to the slow and faltering fashion in which the processes of justice in the United States move toward retribution.

The condition is emphasized by the case of Dr. Buck Ruxton, who cut up his wife and left her body in a ravine and who will be hanged at Manchester, England, on April 1, the day after the date set for the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Dr. Ruxton was picked up by the police September 13, 1935. His trial lasted eleven days and he will be hanged within two weeks after a jury returned a verdict of guilty. Hauptmann was arrested September 19, 1934, so that more than nineteen months will have elapsed from that time until his execution. More than a year has passed since his conviction.

Britishers are extremely reluctant to engage in murder and the reason lies in the fact that they realize there is every chance that their own lives will be forfeited. If this were the rule in the United States the records would not show 6,251 lives taken by murderers in a single year.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN

CHARLIE CHAPLIN is more elusive today than he was twenty years ago, when he was making two-reel comedy shorts, or even when the shorts had blossomed into those full-length comedies which were among the funniest things man has ever been privileged to see. There is almost a full generation of younger moviegoers who have seen him no more than once or twice. Some of them have never seen Charlie Chaplin at all. How strange that seems.

They will never, of course, see him just as he was in "Shoulder Arms" or "The Kid." Charlie Chaplin has changed with the years. He is concerned with other things than the simple business of being funny. But he is still very, very funny. He

TOWNSEND FORCES OUT CLEMENTS

WASHINGTON—R. E. Clements, co-founder of the Townsend movement, did not voluntarily resign from the organization, as he and his colleagues announced. He was forcibly ousted.

The secret, behind-the-scenes maneuvers which preceded this fall have all the elements of story-book drama—a young, beautiful red-headed woman, great public power, big money, and clashing personal and political ambitions.

The eruption had its start early last winter, when Clements cancelled a radio broadcast that Dr. Francis E. Townsend, originator of the old-age pension formula, was scheduled to make.

Townsend and his intimates placed responsibility for this rebuff at the doorstep of Mrs. Thelma Clements, the 28-year-old, read-headed ex-stenographer whom Clements married in 1934. They accused Mrs. Clements of having secret designs to shelve Townsend, and of high-handed meddling in the affairs of the organization.

This rift between the two partners continued to widen as Clements, and his wife, pushed themselves increasingly to the fore in the control of the organization.

Townsend, finally, could stand no more of this. He packed his bags and fled back to California.

PACKED BOARD

There he conferred with his attorney, Sheridan Downey, a militant follower of the ex-Socialist Upton Sinclair and the candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the EPIC ticket in 1934. Out of the conferences with Downey came a secret meeting in the Muehlbach Hotel in Kansas City on March 9th.

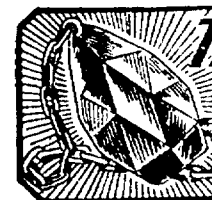

Present at this gathering were Townsend, Downey, Judge Gomer Smith of Oklahoma, the third member of the Townsend board, and a number of state leaders. Clements was not present in person, but was represented by his attorney.

After extended discussion it was decided to increase the size of the board by adding two members. Elected to these places were Dr. R. J. Wright, of Cleveland, manager of the Ohio area, and Gilmore Young, a henchman of E. L. Margate, manager of the California area and one of the most powerful officials in the Townsend movement.

None of this leaked out to the millions of oldsters who paid regular dues to the organization.

Among insiders, however, two reasons were whispered as responsible for the enlarging of the board: (1) a larger board would make a better impression upon Congressional investigators; (2) more directors were needed to out-vote Clements and bring about his ouster.

THE CAMDEN RUBY MURDER

BY ADAM BLISS

COPYRIGHT—RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

WORD THIS FIRST:

Doc Van Every, a collector of rare jewels, invites an acquaintance, Gary Maughan, and the latter's old friend, Margalo Younger, an actress, to his home to view the priceless Camden ruby. At Van Every's both Margalo, sitting before the fire, and Maughan are impressed with the size and brilliance of the rare stone. Van Every objects in vain when Margalo hovers the ruby from her neck, explaining it is called a "murder stone," and then proceeds to relate its gruesome history.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

"I HAVE SAID that James, first owner of the Camden ruby, was a sick man when he returned from Jerusalem. He had gone to that far country, a young man, a man in his prime, and when he came back to his case, after a few years, his hair was tinged with gray, and his eyes were those of an old man."

"He brooded over the death of Gwladys, his beloved. And a year later he died, not a violent death, but a peaceful one. His brother, John, a younger brother, no more than a boy when the call of the Crusades had gone out, became Lord of Camden. "Now, John had heard tales of the great ruby. He had not himself seen it because James had quickly taken it after Gwladys was found dead. But there were knights who had seen it glowing in Gwladys' hand, and had murmured about it. So John knew about it. He searched the castle for it day and night, thinking that his brother had hidden it some place. It was not in any of the strong boxes. For years he searched for it, while other men were starting out on a fresh Crusade to the east."

"He saw his young son, a mere baby, take a banner and leave on the Children's Crusade, without a murmur. John was married, and two sons had been born to him, one, who was never named, the boy who bravely set out with other children to show Jerusalem the light; another, Rolf, who figures later in this story. Rolf was the younger, not yet born when James died."

"Years passed, and still the ruby was not found. At last an old man, John, desecrated the graves of his brother James and Gwladys in his search. He found the ruby at last, in Gwladys' grave."

"John had a sweetheart—we don't know her name. It has been lost in the ages somewhere. But gleefully he brought the stone to her. It was more beautiful than ever, a blood-red gem. John's hair was white, his shoulders stooped and bent; she was young, handsome. She had heard tales of the ruby since she was a child in the castle of Camden. At last it was hers. It was she who had suggested as a last possibility that the graves of James and Gwladys might hold the jewel."

"She put it around her neck, saw the crimson shadow it cast on her white skin. She was content. John would have to leave her. He had to go in the morning when her maids came in to awaken her, they found her quite dead, the ruby clutched in her fingers, much the way Gwladys had held it."

"Once more the castle was in mourning. John was prostrated. He began to believe the tales of the murder stone. Gwladys had died. Now this woman whom he loved. He locked the stone up in his strong chest, and set a guard by it night and day. No one must handle the jewel."

"Soon John himself died and Rolf was master of the castle of Camden. Rolf, when he was a boy, found a great deal of gold, an abundance of jewels. At the bottom wrapped in a bit of parchment inscribed with Latin was the ruby. Rolf could only write his name, so he summoned a scholar who could translate the letters which were on the parchment. The scholar told him what they meant. John had not written them himself. One of the scholars in his castle had penned the note at John's dictation."

"I do not have the note, but this is the substance: John willed the ruby to his son, Rolf, on condition that the stone was to remain in the coffer, and that no one, no one, mind you, was to wear it.

"Rolf was rather frightened. He had heard of Gwladys' death. He had heard of the castle when his father's sweetheart died. He was married himself. He thought of selling the stone. Indeed, he brought it several times when strangers were in the castle, men of much gold, and offered it to them for a price. None of them would buy. The ruby was too dangerous. So after a while Rolf let it lie."

"His wife, the wife of his middle age, for Rolf was getting on in years when John died, was warned not to go near the coffer. She heeded the warning, and had admonished her four daughters, for Rolf was not blessed with a son, to do the same."

"But Ellen, the youngest and fairest, a mere girl, had peeped through the great door into the hall once while Rolf was showing the stone to a rich stranger and urging him to buy it. She saw its red beauty, and longed for it. To wear it only once! "She awaited her chance and in the night crept up to the coffer where the gem was hidden. One of the knights, prowling about the castle, saw her steal in her dark clothes. He did not recognize her as Ellen, so when he came on her tampering with the lock of the big chest, he drew out his dagger and killed her. Ellen, too, died for her ruby."

"Misfortunes followed the Lord of Camden. Four girls and no heir Ellen killed. Rolf went on a long journey to another land to try to steal the stone. He was gone for a few years. When he came back, he did not have the ruby, and we imagine he was jubilant. Where he had sold it we did not know. I wish we did. Anyway, the stone was gone. He must have sold it, because Rolf was cold and hungry; he would not give the stone away."

"His return to the castle was a sad one. Nothing remained of his lands, his home, but ruins. Marauders had come in his absence and taken away his women, burned his fields, and castle."

Van Every paused, and sipped once more from his glass. I glanced nervously at Margalo. How was she taking this? She wearing the fatal Camden ruby. Her hands were quite still in her lap, and she was staring into the fireplace, her eyes expressionless, her features rather pale. I was furious with myself because I hadn't been firmer about her wearing the ruby. Of course the story was bound to frighten her. Yet she wasn't superstitious, I knew that. Tomorrow she would laugh about the story, and go back to Van Every to see the jewel again. The room was very silent. A clock was ticking softly some place. I hadn't noticed it before, so interested had I been in the story Van Every was telling. The traffic from the street did not reach up into the library. It was late, I thought, and there would be few cars on the streets."

The clock seemed very near me. I was rather astonished when I realized it was my own watch ticking in my pocket.

Margalo hadn't touched her cognac. The glass was still filled to the brim on the small table before her. Mine, empty, was beside hers.

On the couch at her side were the ashes of a cigarette she had been smoking, resting round and perfect, in a tray on the cushions. She had taken a few puffs and then put it down long before. It was quite burned out now. She must have been intensely interested in what Van Every was saying. But then, I have never seen in anyone before what Van Every had said was probably alive to her, real.

"I don't know whether I ought to go on," Van Every broke the stillness apologetically. "I'm afraid you are bored."

Again I glanced at Margalo. She said nothing.

"Miss Younger, do you wish to hear more?" He addressed her, quickly.

"Go on, Van Every," I insisted. "You can't stop there."

So he took up the thread of his romance. "Where was I? Oh, yes, Rolf had come back to his castle. We will leave him there. For he does not figure in the story again."

"For years nothing was heard of the great ruby. Oh, now and then someone spoke of it, I suppose, and wondered where it was. Wondered whether the tales about it were true, enlarged on those tales, probably. It was easy to embellish them. Some thought the ruby was a myth. That there was no Camden ruby. That it was like the magic sword of King Arthur, like the Grail. Just a legend."

"But still there were the children of the children of the children of those who had seen the stone, seen the hole pierced in it, seen the golden chain, seen the gorgeous beauty of it."

WORLD AT A GLANCE

WHAT CAUSES movements that promise a great deal for a little to collapse?

They invariably do—of their own accord. Time is against them. Even, however, when the strike in the heat of emotion, prior to the working of time, they collapse within a year or two.

Men who study such matters give this answer:

"Logic is inexorable. Against even the outcries of millions, logic in the form of fate marches on."

There is no easy road to a settlement of problems.

Thousands of our readers will assert we are writing of the Townsend movement. We are.

We wrote, also, a year or so ago of Huey Long and Father Coughlin. We said that, in any contest, President Roosevelt would win over them—not because the president was right, but because the illogical reasonings of the movements would be disclosed by time.

The same inexorable march of time or fate probably will disclose the illogic of the Roosevelt financial policy. But, as the president has the power of government behind him and as he can change policies to meet expediences, he is likely to survive critics and movements.

Furthermore, conservatives and diehards will support a president tacitly in defense of his policy.

Even while they attack him, they will consider him a work on this particular issue.

The collapse of "easy-road" movements does not mean, however, that change will not occur.

Well still will be forced to climb the rocky hills—to reach the succor on the other side.

Neither the "easy-road" folk nor the diehards will see that.

But the "rocky road," too, is inexorable. Who among us does not wish it would be otherwise?

SOCIAL SECURITY

All of which does not mean that we should not have social security on a broad scale.

But even social security will not work if fundamentals—equal opportunities for all—are not reached.

BORAH ALIVE

For a man seventy, Senator Borah is extremely lively. Not only is he carrying on an independent campaign for delegates to the Republican national convention, but he is taking the lead in legislation in congress.

Now the Borah-Van Nuys measure to regulate chain organizations is favored by witnesses over the Robinson-Patman measure.

Senator, though, is weak in his economic thinking—his many critics say.

Dr. Malcolm McNair of the Harvard School of Business Administration, for example, believes that Senator Borah's measure might deprive consumers of savings which follow large sales distribution.

Dr. McNair remarked at a senate hearing on the Borah-Van Nuys bill: "Our business in this country follows a course of evolution. We all know that economic progress as a rule means that somebody's toes are stepped on." (Dr. McNair inferred small business.)

To which Senator Borah responded: "We are trying to put big business on a legitimate basis and that is all we are trying to do. I object to turning to corporations which have no competition."

DICTATOR? NO!

Ask Wall Street now whether it desires a dictator in the United States.

A few years ago leading financiers were suggesting that the United States required a dictator like Mussolini.

That opinion has changed since Mussolini ordered the nationalization of all the industries in Italy.

IN AUSTRIA

Socialists in Austria (equivalent to Democrats in the United States), acquitted of treason and possible death, are not freed. They are taken to concentration camps. They are guilty of being an oppositionist party.

Those convicted, chiefly intellectuals, will suffer in "legitimate" prisons, or have their life taken on the gallows.

They waited in jail 14 months for their trials.

Such is life in a fascist country. Italy, Austria, Poland, Germany, Rumania—thousands in those countries are secreted to camps and prisons. Not because they have committed crimes, but because they belong to oppositionist parties.

How long can this go on?

DIET AND HEALTH

Minerals, Other Substances Needed to Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE SPOKE yesterday of the possibility that a number of obscure diseases could be due to food deficiencies—to the absence of certain things in the diet. We know enough to say, in the present state of our knowledge, that the following substances must be present in the diet for the maintenance of health: (1) Calcium, (2) iron, (3) the vitamins and (4) the anti-anemia factor. Strictly speaking, it is improper to say that the last must be present in the diet, because the body furnishes it and stores it in the liver. But we know that when a certain type of anemia occurs, the blood can be brought back to normal by feeding animal liver, which contains this anti-anemia factor.

Dr. Clendening

The inter-relationships of these various disease factors are very complicated, and it may be that the formation of a necessary hormone in the body is dependent upon very complicated dietary factors. For instance, there is a disease in dogs known as "black tongue," which can be produced by the same diet which apparently causes pellagra in man. If this diet, however, is fed to hogs, they develop, not black tongue, but a curious form of anemia similar to pernicious anemia in man. This hints at the fact that the anti-anemia factor may be dependent upon elements

Case Illustrates Point

A case illustrating these complicated inter-relationships is that of a woman who had marked anemia, as well as heart trouble. She had been subject to digestive upsets a good part of her life and was easily fatigued. Her blood showed an anemia of the type associated with iron deficiency. She had been on an incomplete and poorly balanced diet for years on account of her digestive complaints: she had not eaten meat since childhood, and ate very few vegetables. When her diet was restricted in accordance with our knowledge of a balanced diet, both the anemia and the neuritis cleared up.

In many of these patients it is necessary to restore the digestive functions to normal before improvement takes place.

Another case is that of a woman who had five children in rapid succession. At the age of 22 she was found to have anemia and numbness and weakness of the hands and feet. She lived in a mill town, under poor conditions, on a very limited diet for economic reasons. The rapidly succeeding pregnancies had been a severe drain upon her food store. When her diet was rearranged and balanced, her symptoms promptly cleared up.

Renaissance in Design

In Black Silk Taffeta

Black taffeta "Renaissance" frock with hand-embroidered batiste banding, modeled by Sally Eilers.

By LISBETH

WHATEVER influence created this lovely formal gown, worn by Sally Eilers, and there are several, it is a model that would fit itself into any evening picture and make a hit.

The designer, Ernest Dryden, had the Renaissance in mind when he created it. It is made of black taffeta, and is high waisted, the narrow, upstanding ruffle heading the skirt. There is a vest of hand-embroidered batiste banding, the decolletage is square, and the puffs on the sleeves are divided by fine strands of seed pearls.

This is the type of dress certain women can wear at any time of year, and look picturesque. The skirt is gathered all the way around, and not bunched in the back, which is the way of many of the latest models.

Book Review Friday

An enthusiastic and appreciative audience was present Friday evening at the Presbyterian church to hear Mrs. Dewey Head review "North to the Orient" by Anne Lindbergh. This was the third of a series of reviews being sponsored by the Westminster Bible class.

Previous to the review Mrs. Head gave a short description of four books, which the audience had the privilege of voting for, as their choice, for her final review of the season in April.

Displaying her usual histrionic skill in her portrayals of characters and conditions, she was even more appealing in the unfolding of this masterpiece of travel and adventure.

Mrs. Head, voicing the universal prominence of this book, stated that for 28 weeks the last season it outsold all other non-fiction books and may even surpass the sales of "Anthony Adverse," within a few months.

In considering its literary appeal, some might think its sales soared because of the prominence of the author, the place her husband has gained in world achievements and the fact that she is ranked as one of the ten most outstanding women in America. However this has nothing to do with its popularity. The book stands on its own feet, noted for its grace of prose, its poetical apperceptive, illuminating freshness and delicate fallacies, in other words Anne Lindbergh knows how to tell a story with simplicity of style, in her description of the peoples of the various countries. She also depicts without realization her own sterling qualities of naturalness, void of boredom and sophistication.

The book assures you from the beginning that it is not the usual travel book. No technical account of accomplishments and no geographical survey is given.

The author gives an inside vision of the back stairs of aviation which is even more important than the front stairs and proves the Fairy tale of yesterday is the facts of today.

In the book Anne interestingly related her reaction to the curious crowds that thronged about them prior to their departure into the country mapped out by she and her husband. They chose the circle course from New York to Tokyo, or the shortest route between the two points.

She told of the fond farewell from her home folk in North Haven, Me., how all the neighbors had come to see them off.

Later when Anne flies on a pleasure trip as she looks from her plane and sees the surging crowds below and the motor cars that travel like droves of beetles, she wonders why life isn't simple, beautiful and quiet. Watching them as if through a glass bottomed bucket on a tempestuous sea, she is able to make comparisons, and meditate on the vastness of it all. She has seen and known them all on this continent and that, and she longs for the peace and quiet she enjoyed on that long itinerary into a new world as fresh as new fallen snow, where human being had never trod. Aviation opens paths yet unknown, via the air we may see it all.

Metropolitan to Resume Big Concerts May 16

After 51 Years Blasted By Action; Pat O'Brien to Be on Jolson Program; Ethel Merman Returns

After 51 years of locked doors during spring seasons, the Metropolitan Opera House will once more be opened for performances. Not a few New Yorkers attend the revived series, the entire nation will be starting May 16 when they go on the air over coast-to-coast Broadcasting Company works.

The Saturday matinee of the spring season will be broadcast over the nation wide networks. The first Saturday matinee on May 16 will be heard over an NBC-WJZ network, the following week on an NBC-WJZ network, and so on.

This season, to be presented at popular prices, is planned to give opera-goers opportunity to hear some of the world's greatest voices singing by the Metropolitan's talented young American singers. The post-season has been made possible through an agreement made by the Metropolitan Opera Company with the Juilliard Musical Foundation a year ago.

The committee in charge of the enterprise consists of Mrs. Marcia Gaynor, Dr. John Erskine and Edward Wardell, with Edward Johnson, General Manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, serving as president pro tem.

No announcement has been made as to personnel other than that the roster of principals will consist mainly of the young American singers of the Metropolitan. The names have not been heard in leading roles during the regular season. "Carmen" and "The Barber of Seville" have been mentioned for production together with English versions of "Gian-Schiuch" and "The Bartered Bride".

It is understood that the regular Metropolitan orchestra and chorus will be used. As the New York Opera House is now air-conditioned it is probable that this season will continue as long as public patronage will justify.

STARS OF STATE MEET ON TRACK; OWENS TO ENTER

High School Invitational Contests Planned; Peacock Rivalry Resumed

COLUMBUS, March 28.—(UP)—Stars of Ohio scholastic track ranks will receive their first big test of the season tonight when two of the state's outstanding invitational meets are held at Toledo and Cleveland.

The fifth annual University of Toledo meet is expected to attract entrants from upward of 30 schools, while 700 athletes were listed for competition in the 13th Annual Cleveland Interscholastic meet.

Toledo Scott, for the past two seasons the state scholastic champion and winner of the Toledo invitational meet three times since its inception, was favored to retain its title. Scott has won the event every year except 1933 when Cleveland Lakewood took the championship.

Thousands Strong
Scott's sternest opposition was expected to come from Sandusky and Toledo DeVilbiss.

Included among the other Class A schools with entrants were Toledo Libbey, Lima Central, Elyria, Tiffin Columbian, Mansfield, Greenview and Bryan.

The Class B winner in 1935 was Delta. It will return to make a defense of its title.

At Cleveland the schoolboy stars in track events will attempt to emulate the performances established by competitors in the preliminary track events Thursday when three records were broken.

The outstanding effort was the six foot five inch high jump of Wesley Allen, Glenview. Allen's leap threw into discard the old mark of six feet one inch held jointly by Jesse Owens and Dave Albritton, now at Ohio State.

Shot Put Mark Set
The other records were made in the shot put by Sam Goldman, John Adams, and Ed Kasputis, Euclid Shore.

One of the special features of the Cleveland meet will be the renewal of the rivalry between Jesse Owens and Eulace Peacock, Temple star and conqueror of the Ohio State race in the national A. U. at Omaha last summer. Owens and Peacock will face each other in a 50 yard dash.

STAKE RACES SET FOR GRAND CIRCUIT MEET

COLUMBUS, March 28.—(UP)—Two stake races, each with a purse of $3,500, are included among the early closing events to be raced at the Grand Circuit trotting meet in connection with the Ohio State fair here Aug. 31 to Sept. 5.

The headline races will be the Geers stake for two year old pacers and a similar race for three year old pacers. Entries for these have already closed. Entries for 12 other early closing events will be received until April 15.

CUNNINGHAM FORCED

PORTLAND, Ore., March 28.—(UP)—A blazing sprint on the last lap last night gave Glenn Cunningham of Kansas a victory over Sam McGaughy of University of Oregon in a mile race which featured the Hill Military academy's fifth annual indoor relay carnival.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. A. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

MAKING 5-HEARTS

SOMETIMES experience with a special type of bidding is necessary to play it to best advantage. This was the case with my partner sitting South, with a contract of 5-Hearts being doubled by West, who never doubled unless he felt certain of defeating the contract. The opening lead was the Ace of clubs. An experienced player can fulfill the contract readily, without double-dummy play. No declarer unfamiliar with the type of hand should be expected to play it right.

♠ None

♦ A 7 5 3 2
♣ J 9 5 4

Bidding went: South, 1-Diamond; West, 2-Clubs; North, 3-Spades, as I expected at least a game, perhaps a small slam, so felt obliged to force partner to rebid; West, 4-Clubs; South, 4-Hearts, to show second suit; West, passed; North, 5-Hearts, which West doubled.

The opening lead of the Ace of clubs was nullified by dummy. Never mind how South played the hand to go down one trick through lack of judgment with the type of hand.

About This And That In Many Sports

C. A. C. Cagers Eat

C. A. C. basketballers and a few outsiders ate steak, and steak, and more steak Friday evening at the Pickaway Country Club. The banquet was the climax of the season and was enjoyed by all—Fifteen surrounded the festival board, each was given a plate-sized steak and after these were devoured four more luscious ones were divided among the 15. In the hungry gang were Byron Ebby, the biggest eater of the gang, George Vreberome, Julius Gordon, Dick Robinson, Carl Purcell, Bill Hegel, Joe Barnes, Glenn Geib, Eve Merriman, George Dudley Courtwright, Boyce Parks, Robert Terhune, Art Steele, Orville Barr, and John Heiskell. There were no speeches—Four who were invited, Joe Lynch, Carl Burger, Pete Trego and Art Walker, could not be present thus the surplus of steaks.

Ashville Banquets

Ashville P.T.A. banqueted its fine basketball teams Friday evening with awards being presented to the cagers. The season was one of the most successful in recent years, a tribute to the boys and girls and the coaches, Mr. Kauber and Miss Casteel.

Indians and Cards?

The annual "guessing" contest concerning major league ball teams is on—One of these days the Cleveland Indians are going to break out in a fever that will be unstoppable—Maybe this is the year—However, aid is needed in the catching department before the Clevelanders can claim a title—We'd like to see St. Louis and Cleveland in the world series.

St. Paul Fast

Columbus beat a St. Paul ball club Friday that the janitor wouldn't be surprised to see go places this summer. The Saints have Warner, a star infielder, Phil Todd and Freddie Koster are playing first base; Rosenthal, Ivy Shiver and Steinbacher, recently of the Cubs, in the garden, Bob Boken at third, Gordon Slade at short, and Resotko, a star rookie last year, trying to out Slade—Bob Fenner is catching, and a good mound staff is present.

JOHNSON'S WORK WORRIES MCCARTHY; ERRORS HURT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 28.—(UP)—Added to Manager Joe McCarthy's worries is the fact that Roy Johnson appears to be miscast in left field. Johnson's early season performances indicate that he is not sure on ground balls—and anything that trickles through the left fielder in Yankee stadium will travel far. In yesterday's game with the Bees, Johnson made two errors. He let Cuccinello's single go through for a three-bagger and he dropped a foul fly. Pat Malone and Bump Hadley are to pitch against the Bees today.

"GAS HOUSE GANG" LOSES TO WASHINGTON SENATORS

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 28.—(UP)—The Washington Nationals were jubilant today over their 8 to 4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, snapping a three-game losing streak, and high in praise of Rookie Third Baseman Buddy Lewis. The Nats' two mound aces, Whitehill and Newsom, collaborated in subduing the "gas house gang."

Zwilling Talks Pennant For Kansas City Blues

Strong Receiving Corps, Good Pitchers Enrolled; Outer Garden Only Spot in Need of Reinforcement

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 28.—(UP)—Manager Edward Harrison (Dutch) Zwilling brought the Kansas City Blues in tied for third last year, and is talking championship terms this season. "The Little Dutchman" isn't promising a championship, but believes with good luck and few injuries he will have a contender in the race—which will be something new for Kansas City baseball fans. Particularly promising pitchers and catchers, and average player talent through and through showed up on the Blues' spring training. The catching staff appears second to none in the Association, with Ed Madjeski ruling as the ace, and George Susce right behind him as one of the Double A's best prospects.

No little aid to the rather formidable pitching staff should come from the two able catchers. Lots of pitchers will win more games than old Willy Moore, but none will give fans more satisfaction than when the grey-thatched veteran breaks into the win column. Zwilling said Moore will start plenty of games and get more than his share of relief tossing.

Other pitchers include Larry Irving, who is having trouble with his legs; Vance Cauble, Hal Smith, Carl Fischer, Joe Vance, Phil Page, Howard Cook and Johnny Niggeling. The pitchers and catchers have gained some box-office appeal in Kansas City, which for some years has been one of the most needed

Burman Drops Buddy Knox of Dayton in Fifth Round

CHICAGO, March 28.—(UP)—Clarence (Red) Burman, gripping Irish protégé of Jack Dempsey, today dangled another promising "white hope's" scalp at his belt after a spectacular five-round knockout over Buddy Knox of Dayton, O.

Burman, a vicious body punisher, hammered at Knox for four full rounds before he fired at Buddy's head and dropped him with a left hook after 11 minutes, 11 seconds of the fifth round.

Burman's previous decision over Billy Treest, who had licked Jack Kearns' Hank Bath, knocked down one of the stadium matchmakers' biggest buildups.

With seven consecutive victories, Knox was leading the tournament when he faced the "Burman test." He rushed Burman in the first round and tagged him several times with a flicking left jab to the face. Burman, however, repeatedly tied up his heavier opponent and felled him unmercifully in the clinches.

Knox pedaled away after a body beating in the second round and stayed clear of Burman for two rounds. In the fifth, Buddy again started slowly, but came in close and lashed at Burman with both hands. Red unleashed a furious body attack and as Knox backed into the ropes to cover up, he caught Buddy with a quick criss-cross to the jaw and felled him for the count.

assets of the Blues. Also Dale Alexander and a few others who clout the ball occasionally kept the crowds up pretty well last year, and have shown nothing to diminish their appeal.

Alexander appears a certainty for first base, with Ham Schulte at second, Eddie Marshall or Ray French at short and probably Marty Hopkins, formerly with the White Sox, at third.

Joe Valente, who plays any infield position except first base, brought enthusiastic reports from the training camp, where he uncorked some fancy fielding and fair batting. He may replace Hopkins to land a regular job at the hot corner.

Ed McCulloch, who was farmed out to Dallas in the Texas League last year by Chicago, has been obtained for outfield duty to round out a group that already included Russ Scarritt, and Al Marchand.

DIZZY DEAN'S WALKOUT COSTS HIM $100 FINE

LAKELAND, Fla., March 28.—(UP)—Contrite Dizzy Dean, Cardinal pitching ace, today agreed to pay a $100 fine levied by Commissioner Keneaw Mountain Landis for his "walkout" on an exhibition game last fall arranged by Joe Engel, owner of the Chattanooga Lookouts in the Southern association.

Dizzy, usually an articulate fellow, had nothing to say.

The incident occurred while Dizzy was on a barnstorming tour at the end of last season. He took one look at the scanty crowd in the Chattanooga ball park and refused to walk out on the field. Commissioner Landis ordered him to "pay up within 10 days."

BOWLING NEWS

Two Circleville bowling teams won matches from Chillicothe foes this week, the Coca Colas winning, 2602 to 2485, and the Circleville Oils coping a 2430-2226 contest.

John Boggs was high for the Coca Colas with 585 while M. Gordon with 515 paced the Circleville Oils.

Mykrazz Drugs continued in the race for city league honors by dropping the Coca Colas in two out of three matches this week. Scores were lower than usual although the Coca Colas bunched pins in the second session to topple 926. Vining for the Drugs hit 204 and 205 but sandwiched a 138 to have only a 547 total.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Local Democrats held pole-raising?

Older Democrats of Circleville will remember the gay pole-raising held after election victories. A tin rooster and pictures of candidates were placed on the high pole. The affair included band music, speeches and on some occasions, fireworks and a barbecue. One of the largest pole-raising every held in Circleville was at the corner of Court and Water-sts. Residents report the last raising was held more than 35 years ago.

A new day has dawned for jazz music. A new rhythm, a new interpretation has come to the fore and is taking America by storm. It is called "swing," but exactly what it is, no one seems to know.
